What J.F.K. Means to Me

Hailey O'Quinn
May 20, 2015

J.F.K.'s Family was smart and respectful. J.F.K. was very competitive. J.F.K. was a great leader and was determined. J.F.K.'s mom wanted J.F.K. to be responsible and helpful. J.F.K.'s family was brave and hard working.

J.F.K.'s family was loving and kind. His mom was educational and at dinner time she would ask her children questions, and if they were wrong, she knew they weren't studying hard enough, and they would have to study more.

J.F.K.'s dad was very competitive and said

"You have to come in 1st, 2nd is not good enough" and pushed him to do well. J.F.K.'s family gave him a lot of responsibilities for being the second oldest, and it was a lot of work to help take care of 7 younger siblings.

His Father wanted Joe Kennedy (J.F.K.'s brother) to be pesident, but Joe died and then J.F.K.'s dad wanted J.F.K. to be president. The questions his mom asked him helped him with his grades. And his dad told him to come in 1st and that told him to believe in himself.

J.F.K. and I are alike because both our family's are supportive. And we both want to help others.

Something I learned is to stand up for what you believe is right even when other people say No. And I learned to try to make the world a better place.