I worked the pocket out that we discovered this forenoon & M.A. Moore explored quite a while to find another one but failed to find it. While Elmer was pocking his con with specimens M.A. Moore & I made a discovery of importance which connected the South end of Crystal Palace with the Old Stalactites Rooms by way of the Rope that we put in there two or three months ago. We got out alright at 6:30 P.M.

7:05 in cove (Crystal Route -- 2 trip at 7:35 a.m M.A. Moore & I started in the cove to get the quartz crystals that we left in the South end of Crystal Palace. We first worked out the large specimen that I left on the bank of stone near the pocket & got it in two pieces. We loaded up with quartz crystals & pulled out for the entrance, arriving there at 10:40 a.m With our specimens in good Shape.

at 1:00 P.M M.A. Moore & I started in the cove with the intention of getting the remnant of the quartz crystals in the South end of Crystal Palace. When we got to the North end of the Palace we determined to explore for quartz pockets and did explore for nearly an hour without finding a quartz pocket but I found a small hole leading down to the North east of the North end of Crystal Palace and found lots of popcorn work as well as good signs of a main passage, Wind being the main sign which was coming out of the hole. Near the second lap at the South end of Crystal Palace M.A. Moore climbed up to the right and found a pretty (little) stalactite room. We got out of the cove at 5:00 P.M. Elmer & M.A. Moore started in the cove after supper.
