THE EIGHTY-FOURTH REGIMENT.—The following is a list of the killed and wounded from McDonough county, at the battle of Murfreesboro:

COMPANY A.—Killed, Aaron Maccumber. Severely wounded, 1st. Lieut. Thomas G. Wisdom, Orderly Sargeant L. N. Mitchell, Samuel Patrick. Slightly wounded, Sergt. E. Roll, Willis Dixon, Corp. J. B. Worthman, T. J. Shepherd, C. C. Roberts, Wilford Mitchell, Geo. Parks, David G. Tuggle, Phil. Shigler, Samuel B. Shreenes, John Crane, John C. Patterson, Joseph Deardoff, G. J. Waters.

COMPANY C.—Killed, Color Sergt. Geo. E. Yocum, Richard W. Pennington. Severely wounded, Abraham Pardon, Albert Markland, G. M. White, Wm. G. Harris, G. W. McDaniel, David Avery. Slightly wounded, Thos. G. Martin, Wm. A. Gherson, Nelson Butchers, Wm. A. Chapman.

☞ In our letter from Springfield last week, the election of D. J. Waggoner of Fulton, sergeant at arms, and J. M. Blades, of Hamilton, assistant, was accidentally omitted. The aforesaid "D. J." is one of the best men alive, and is deserving of honorable mention all the time.

☞ A case of "sorghum and feathers" came off at Ellisville, Fulton county, a few days ago. The victim was a woman, who was charged with seducing various married men, and the injured wives vented their indignation by an application of sorghum and feathers to the demirep who had invaded their marital rights. The next phase in the affair will be a large lot of business for the prosecuting attorney of the 5th district.

Swindling the Soldiers.

A few days ago we took the Baltimore express train for Pittsburg. The cars were nearly all filled with sick and wounded soldiers. Some of them were wounded at the late Fredericksburg slaughter. Some were mere skeletons, from long confinement in the hospitals, and were unable to walk without assistance. We entered into conversation with them, and were surprised and pained to learn from them, that they had nothing to eat since they left Baltimore, the day before, and were without one cent of money. They informed us that there was eight months pay due them, but the government could not pay them. We asked them to show us their discharge papers, which they readily done. On examining the back of the discharge, we found stamped or written in red ink, "paid in full." We informed them that the endorsement concluded them from all back pay. They were intensely indignant at the perpetrators of the swindle, and solemnly asseverated that they had not received one cent of pay, some for four, some for six, and some for ten months. They pulled out their pocket-books to convince us that they had no money, assuring us that the wounded money alone was their [illegible] suffering [illegible] from [illegible] Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin [illegible] to promise [illegible] was [illegible] by the citizen passengers.

They were all indignant at the removal of McClellan, and blamed the Fredericksburg slaughter on the impertinent interference of the Washington cabal.

To illustrate the strong attachment of the army to McClellan, one of the wounded said that at the battle of Fredericksburg, a wounded soldier was being carried off the field in an ambulance. He said, in an undertone, "If McClellan was here, we would not have been used so." Instantly those conveying the ambulance exclaimed, "Bring back McClellan! Bring back McClellan!" In less than two minutes the cry of "Bring back McClellan! Bring back McClellan!" rung out in one deafening shout throughout the whole division.

One soldier from Indiana told us he had been in the army nineteen months. That he volunteered under the conviction that the administration would
