

Moving Through Glacier's History

*The first Americans who lived in this great land,
Traveled through the mountains in tribal bands,
They could not avoid the heat or the sleet,
The only way to travel was on their two*

*Hundreds of years ago the Spanish brought it by boat,
With four legs and a tail, it's not a deer or a goat,
You can ride it, but take heed, it moves with great force.
So saddle up partner! You're riding a*

*One rail at a time the Great Northern was erected,
From St. Paul to Seattle, all was connected.
Now it moves cars full of people, lumber, and grain.
"All aboard!" There it goes, the conductor and the*

*The Going-To-The-Sun Road took many years to build.
It was finished in 1932 by men who were quite skilled.
This vehicle tours the road carrying a whole bunch of us,
You ride a yellow one to school, on the Sun Road we ride a red*

*Waterton-Glacier is a well-loved resource,
People still visit by bus, train, and horse.
Some come from close and others from afar,
Many families arrive driving their very own*

*We understand now that all those cars emit gases,
As everyone's driving themselves up the steep mountain passes.
Now we can share a ride and together we'll huddle,
'Cause as a team we all win
when we hop on the*

Directions:

People have traveled through Glacier for a long time.

To see how they moved, look at the pictures and complete the rhymes.