Have you ever wanted to work in Alaska, wear a National Park Service uniform, and listen to the roar of the ocean waves while teaching children about the great outdoors? Help youth make lasting connections to a national treasure!

Glacier Bay National Park is looking for a school teacher who is interested in working for the National Park Service. If selected, you will assist rangers in creating and presenting summer programs for school age children, develop curriculum-based lessons for schools, and create a Jr Ranger program with an emphasis on the unique resources of the Yakutat area of Glacier Bay National Park.

To qualify for the Teacher-Ranger position, you must be a teacher from a public or non-profit school and a U.S. citizen. We are looking for an enthusiastic teacher interested in sharing the beauty of Glacier Bay with school age children and sharing with their classroom, curriculum-based lesson plans that draw on their summer's experience. Learn, work, and grow in an amazing national park. Be a part of the adventure!
