

Alaska Park Science

National Park Service
U.S. Department of Interior

Alaska Regional Office
Anchorage, Alaska

The Legacy of ANILCA

Table of Contents

Introduction by Jimmy Carter _____ 4

HISTORY

A History of Science in Alaska's National Parks _____ 6

Old Is Getting Older _____ 13

SUBSISTENCE

Subsistence _____ 19

Dave Spirtes, 1948-2004 _____ 21

ANILCA and the Arctic Caribou Herd
Cooperative Management Plan _____ 22

K'ezdlagh: Nondalton Ecological
Knowledge of Freshwater Fish _____ 27

MINING

Mining Legacy in National Parks of Alaska _____ 33

Mining in the Parks _____ 34

GOLD! _____ 35

Mining and Mitigation:
The Coal Creek Remediation Project _____ 36

Physical Hazards Abatement:
"Look but Don't Touch; Stay Out, Stay Alive" _____ 36

Abandoned Mineral Land
Restoration Activities in Alaska _____ 37

SCIENCE

Science in Wilderness Marine Reserves _____ 39

Long-term Research in Remote Parks:
Opportunities and Obstacles _____ 40

Balancing the Benefits and Impacts of Science in Alaska's Wilderness _____ 44

Science in Alaska National Parks: Challenges and Opportunities for the 21st Century _____ 47

This project is made possible through funding from the National Park Foundation. Additional funding is provided by the National Park Service and other contributors.

Alaska Park Science is published twice a year. Recent issues of Alaska Park Science are available for sale by the Alaska Natural History Association (www.alaskanha.org). Charitable donations to help support this journal may be sent to: Alaska Natural History Association, 750 West Second Avenue, Suite 100, Anchorage, AK 99501 ATTN: Alaska Park Science.

Cover: National Park Service photograph by Bob Belous, Alaska Regional Curatorial Center

About the Authors

Andrew Balluta is a Dena'ina elder and subsistence user from Newhalen, Alaska.

Doug Beckstead is a historian for Yukon-Charley Rivers National Preserve and Gates of the Arctic National Park and Preserve.

Don Callaway is a cultural anthropologist for the National Park Service, Alaska Regional Office.

Jimmy Carter, 39th President of the United States, today works to advance peace and health in more than 65 nations through the nonprofit Carter Center in Atlanta, Georgia.

Karen Gaul is a cultural anthropologist for the Lake Clark-Katmai Studies Center, National Park Service.

Lynn Griffiths is a geological engineer for the National Park Service, Alaska Regional Office.

Logan Hovis is a mining historian for the National Park Service, Alaska Regional Office.

Russ Kucinski is a geologist and team leader of physical resources for the National Park Service, Alaska Regional Office.

Peter Landres is a research ecologist at the Aldo Leopold Wilderness Research Institute, Rocky Mountain Research Station, USDA Forest Service.

Suzanne Marcy is the visiting senior scientist at the National Park Service, Alaska Regional Office.

Mary McBurney is a subsistence manager for the National Park Service, Alaska Regional Office.

Frank Norris is a historian for the National Park Service, Alaska Regional Office.

John Quinley is the assistant regional director of communications for the National Park Service, Alaska Regional Office.

Becky Saleeby is an archeologist for the National Park Service, Alaska Regional Office.

Karen Stickman is the project coordinator for Tribal Water Quality Training Program, Native American Fish and Wildlife Society.

Linda Stromquist is the CERCLA program manager and a geologist for the National Park Service, Alaska Regional Office.

Robert Stottlemeyer is an ecologist with the Biological Resources Division, U.S. Geological Survey, Fort Collins, Colorado.

Robert Winfree is the Alaska Regional Science Advisor for the National Park Service.

Brian Wygal is a doctoral candidate in anthropology at University of Nevada—Reno.

Dan Young is a fisheries biologist for Lake Clark National Park and Preserve.

National Park Service photograph by Bob Belous, ARCC

National Park Service photograph by Bob Belous, ARCC

Alaska Park Science

<http://www.nps.gov/akso/AKParkScience/index.htm>

Editor: Monica Shah

Project Lead: Robert Winfree, Regional Science Advisor, email: robert_winfree@nps.gov

Alaska Park Science Journal Board:

Jane Ahern, Public Affairs Specialist
Ted Birkedal, Team Leader for Cultural Resources
Don Callaway, Cultural Anthropologist
Terry DeBruyn, Regional Wildlife Biologist
Joy Geiselman, Deputy Chief,
Biological Science Office USGS Alaska Science Center
Russ Kucinski, Team Leader for Natural Resources
Rachel Mason, Cultural Anthropologist
John Morris, Education Coordinator
Lisa Oakley, Alaska Natural History Association
John Quinley, Assistant Regional Director for Communications
Ralph Tingey, Associate Regional Director for Resource Protection
Sara Wesser, Inventory and Monitoring Coordinator, Alaska Region
Robert Winfree, Chair of Journal Board

Published by Alaska Natural History Association, a nonprofit partner of the Alaska Region of the National Park Service, supporting educational programs through publishing and operation of visitor center bookstores.

Printed on recycled paper with soy based ink

Alaska Park Science

National Park Service
Alaska Regional Office
240 West 5th Avenue
Anchorage, Alaska 99501

National Park Service photograph by Bob Belous, ARCC