COPYRIGHT AND RESTRICTIONS

The copyright law of the United States (Title 17, United States Code) governs the making of photocopies or other reproductions of copyrighted materials. The various state privacy acts govern the use of materials that document private individuals, groups, and corporations.

Under certain conditions specified in the law, libraries and archives are authorized to furnish a reproduction if the document does not infringe the privacy rights of an individual, group, or corporation. These specified conditions of authorized use include:

- non-commercial and non-profit study, scholarship, or research, or teaching
- criticism, commentary, or news reporting
- as a NPS preservation or security copy
- as a research copy for deposit in another institution

If a user later uses a copy or reproduction for purposes in excess of "fair use," the user may be personally liable for copyright, privacy, or publicity infringement. This institution's permission to obtain a photographic, xerographic, digital, or other copy of a document doesn't indicate permission to publish, exhibit, perform, reproduce, sell, distribute, or prepare derivative works from this document without first obtaining permission from the copyright holder and from any private individual, group, or corporation shown or otherwise recorded.

Permission to publish, exhibit, perform, reproduce, prepare derivative works from, sell, or otherwise distribute the item must be obtained by the user separately in writing from the holder of the original copyright (or if the creator is dead from his/her heirs) as well as from any individual(s), groups, or corporations whose name, image, recorded words, or private information (e.g., employment information) may be reproduced in the source material. The holder of the original copyright isn't necessarily the National Park Service. The National Park Service is not legally liable for copyright, privacy, or publicity infringement when materials are wrongfully used after being provided to researchers for "fair use."

This institution reserves the right to refuse to accept a copying order if fulfillment of the order is judged in violation of copyright or federal or state privacy or publicity law.

HISTORY

A.V. Kidder, one of the foremost archeologists in the southwestern US, convened the first Pecos Conference in 1927 at his field camp near Pecos, NM. The purpose of the conference according to Kidder was to "...bring about contact between workers in the Southwest field to discuss fundamental problems of Southwest prehistory; and to formulate problems of Southwest prehistory; to pool knowledge of facts and techniques, and to lay a foundation for a unified system of nomenclature." Kidder convened a second and third Pecos Conference in 1929 and 1931 in Pecos, NM and Santa Fe, NM.

In place of the Pecos Conference, a meeting known as the Chaco Anthropological Conference which was similar to the Pecos Conference (but included Mayan prehistory in addition to southwest prehistory), took place in Chaco Canyon in 1937, 1938, 1939, 1940, and 1941. Due to World War II and the associated lack of funds, there were no major archeological conferences in the southwest from 1942-1945. Finally in 1946, the Pecos Conference was held in Santa Fe after having disappeared for 15 years, marking the beginning of an annual tradition. The following year, the University of New Mexico brought the Pecos Conference to Chaco Canyon for the first time. Since then, the Pecos Conference has had no formal leadership or organization but continues to take place every year in a location in the southwestern US or northern Mexico.

Held on August 14th through the 17th, the 1997 Pecos Conference marked a return to Chaco Canyon after 50 years. The event was a collaborative effort shared by the NPS, CCNHP, the Intermountain Field Area, and the Maxwell Museum Association. The planning team included Tom Windes, Chairman of the planning committee and CCNHP archeologist, Philip LoPiccolo and Wendy Bustard, Curators of Chaco Museum Collection, Alan Shalette, Maxwell Museum volunteer, Joyce Raab, Chaco Collection Archivist, and Dabney Ford, archaeologist for CCNHP. Other contributors were David Stuart of UNM and Rory Gauthier of CCNHP.

Joyce Raab assembled the contents of the collection. The files contain the planning notes and ephemera of Joyce Raab, Phil LoPiccolo, Tom Windes, and others who planned the conference. A large portion of the collection are photographs of speakers, poster sessions, events, and views of Chaco Canyon taken during the Pecos Conference, most of which were taken by Joyce Raab and her husband, Leonard A. Raab. There are also recordings and transcriptions of several papers presented at the Pecos Conference as well as the original mounted photos and captions representing the exhibit displayed at the CCNHP visitor center.
