Introduction

Little Rock Central High School is a place to learn about a pivotal time in history, to learn how far we've come, and to learn how far we have to go.

In 1957, Little Rock, Arkansas was a battleground in the struggle for civil rights and desegregation of public schools.

Telling A Story

Walk into the exhibits about the 1957 Crisis at Central High, located in the visitor center. In the 1950s - just like today - the media (newspapers, television, radio) was important in telling the Little Rock Central High School (LRCHS) story to the state, nation and world. The conflict at LRCHS became a worldwide media event.

Explore the Exhibit

Choose 3 of the questions below and explore the exhibits in the visitor center to answer the questions.

1. Watch the 3 monitors at the entrance to the exhibits. Pick 3 words or quotes that mean the most to you. What do they mean? Explain them in your own words.

2. Use the flipbook to see if you were included in "We the People." What rights would you have had?

3. Use the phone in the "Rights Granted...and Denied" section to hear what life was like during segregation. How would you feel if you could not go somewhere just because of the color of your skin?

4. Pick up the phone at the "Why Step Forward" exhibit (between the "Ambition" and "Personality" statues) and listen to the Little Rock Nine tell you why they wanted to go to Little Rock Central High School. Was school important to them? Is it important to you? Why or why not?

5. Listen to and watch stories at one of the "Memories of the Crisis" stations at the back of the exhibits. Which story is your favorite? Why is it your favorite?

6. Use the computer touchscreen called "Brown v. Board" in the "Taking it to the Courts" section to learn about the court cases involved in desegregation. How would you get to school if you didn't have a car or school bus? What would you have done if you were a judge in those cases?

Fill in the Blank

1. The preamble to the Constitution says it is a document for "_____ the _____."
2. The Fourteenth Amendment outlawed states from denying citizens the _____ of the laws.
3. Plessy v. Ferguson declared that _____ facilities based on race were constitutional as long as they were equal in quality.
4. The _____ Amendment (1865) outlawed slavery.
5. The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) fought against _____.
6. "_____ laws promoted racial prejudice and segregation.
7. The Little Rock School Board began to desegregate its schools in _____ at Little Rock Central High School.
8. _____ was governor of Arkansas at the time of the 1957 crisis at Little Rock Central High School.
9. The first African American students to attend Little Rock Central High School were known as the "_____."
10. The Arkansas governor used the Arkansas _____ to prevent the African American students from entering Little Rock Central High School in 1957.
11. _____ was President during the Central High School Crisis.
12. Alarmed by the closing of Little Rock's high schools, a group of women formed the _____ to reopen the schools in 1958.
13. The Little Rock School District completed its desegregation plan in _____.
14. The Central High School crisis received national attention because of _____ coverage from newspaper, television, and radio reporters.

Walking in the Footsteps of the Nine

"I had long dreamed of entering Central High. I could never have imagined what that privilege could cost me."

-Melba Pattillo Beals

Take a journey across the street to look at Little Rock Central High School and learn more about the school that the Little Rock Nine wanted to attend in 1957.

The building is a concrete symbol of equal rights under the law, a guarantee that is given to all Americans in the United States Constitution.

Pretend you are an artist who wants to interpret an image of Little Rock Central High School. Draw a sketch of the building and how it might have looked with soldiers standing on guard in 1957.

Take a Step into History

The Little Rock Nine, escorted by the 101st Airborne, climbed the left staircase into Little Rock Central High School and into history.

Silently watching were the four statues above the doors. When Little Rock Central High School opened in 1927, officials explained what the words carved below the statues mean.

*Where AMBITION is fired-
Where PERSONALITY is developed-
Where OPPORTUNITY is presented-
Where PREPARATION in the solution of life's problems is begun.*

1. What goals do you have? Do you have the ambition, or motivation, to meet your goals?
2. How will your personality, or character, shape your goals?
3. What opportunities, or chances, will you need to meet your goals?
4. How can you best prepare, or train, yourself to meet your goals?

Reflections of the Past...To Change the Future

Walk down to the reflecting pool in front of Little Rock Central High School. In her book, Warriors Don't Cry, one of the Little Rock Nine, Melba Pattillo Beals, wrote:

"I pause as I recall what a treacherous place that [pool] was in 1957 when students repeatedly tried to push us...down into the water."

The Little Rock Nine faced bullying and abuse on a daily basis, but they used the principles of nonviolence to defend themselves, rather than striking back physically. Think about your life today. Have you ever seen anyone being bullied? Have you ever been bullied yourself? How did you feel? Have you ever defended someone who was being bullied?

How would you feel if?

1. You were not allowed to attend your school because of the color of your skin?
2. You could not participate in music, sports, or acting at your school because of the color of your skin?
3. You had to be escorted by a soldier when you walked to class?
4. How do you think the Little Rock Nine felt?

Little Rock Central High School NHS Commemorative Garden

The Little Rock Central High School NHS Commemorative Garden celebrates the ability of people to overcome adversity. It depicts how Little Rock Central High's students have changed, and how they have stayed the same, between 1927 and today. It also shows how people have many things in common, regardless of where we are from or under what circumstances we grew up.

Spend some time in the garden and answer the questions below.

Look at the arches and find a picture that has meaning to you. Which picture is it? What does it mean to you?

Read the poem "The Spirit of Central High." You'll find it in the circle between the arches. Write down words you don't know and ask a park ranger what they mean.

Write down three feelings you experience as you walk in the commemorative garden.

What big events have happened in your life that historians in the future might study?

Writing History

You're the historian! Everyone can write history because history is made every day. Pretend you are fifty years old, writing about your visit to Little Rock Central High School National Historic Site. Tell the story of everything you saw and experienced. (For help to get you started, answer the questions below.)

It's best to start at the beginning. Where did you live then? How did you get here? What was your favorite part of the exhibit? What else did you see? Did you like visiting? Why or why not?
