

George Washington Carver National Monument Art and Essay Contest for 3rd and 4th Graders

Kindness is free, and we want to spread it everywhere! Therefore, we invite your students to enter original artwork and essays inspired by the theme of kindness and the selected quote by George Washington Carver. This contest is open to 3rd and 4th graders. The entry deadline is February 14, 2025.

Theme - Kindness

Based on the theme of kindness and George Washington Carver's quote:
"Unkindness to anything means an injustice done to that thing. If I am unkind to you I do you an injustice, or wrong you in some way. On the other hand, if I try to assist you in every way that I can to make a better citizen and in every way to do my very best for you, I am kind to you." George Washington Carver (1914, January 31). Being Kind to the Soil, Negro Farmer, 29. [For reference, the full quote follows.]

Second Place Winner, Individual Art 2017

Contest Guidelines and Information

Kindness full quote:

“Unkindness to anything means an injustice done to that thing. If I am unkind to you I do you an injustice, or wrong you in some way. On the other hand, if I try to assist you in every way that I can to make a better citizen and in every way to do my very best for you, I am kind to you.... The above principles apply with equal force to the soil. The farmer whose soil produces less every year, is unkind to it in some way; that is, he is not doing by it what he should; he is robbing it of some substance it must have, and he becomes, therefore, a soil robber than a progressive farmer.”
