

Name _____

Date _____

Block/Period _____

Source Analysis Activity

Directions: Analyze the documents provided and decide what ideas and attitudes are being presented in each document. After analyzing the documents, place them in chronological order and decide whether or not the view of African Americans during the war was changing or staying the same.

Document 1) Who was this document created by? Who is the Audience? What is it (broadside, political cartoon, etc)? Why might it have been created? What events might have led to the creation of this document? If no date is specified, around what time do you believe this document was produced?

Document 1) In your own words, describe what is occurring in the documents. What language is being used? How is the creator getting their point across?

Document 2) Who was this document created by? Who is the Audience? What is it (broadside, political cartoon, etc)? Why might it have been created? What events might have led to the creation of this document? If no date is specified, around what time do you believe this document was produced?

Document 2) In your own words, describe what is occurring in the documents. What language is being used? How is the creator getting their point across?

Document 3) Who was this document created by? Who is the Audience? What is it (broadside, political cartoon, etc)? Why might it have been created? What events might have led to the creation of this document? If no date is specified, around what time do you believe this document was produced?

Document 3) In your own words, describe what is occurring in the documents. What language is being used? How is the creator getting their point across?

Document 4) Who was this document created by? Who is the Audience? What is it (broadside, political cartoon, etc)? Why might it have been created? What events might have led to the creation of this document? If no date is specified, around what time do you believe this document was produced?

Document 4) In your own words, describe what is occurring in the documents. What language is being used? How is the creator getting their point across?

Document 5) Who was this document created by? Who is the Audience? What is it (broadside, political cartoon, etc)? Why might it have been created? What events might have led to the creation of this document? If no date is specified, around what time do you believe this document was produced?

Document 5) In your own words, describe what is occurring in the documents. What language is being used? How is the creator getting their point across?

Document 6) Who was this document created by? Who is the Audience? What is it (broadside, political cartoon, etc)? Why might it have been created? What events might have led to the creation of this document? If no date is specified, around what time do you believe this document was produced?

Document 6) In your own words, describe what is occurring in the documents. What language is being used? How is the creator getting their point across?

Document 7) Who was this document created by? Who is the Audience? What is it (broadside, political cartoon, etc)? Why might it have been created? What events might have led to the creation of this document? If no date is specified, around what time do you believe this document was produced?

Document 7) In your own words, describe what is occurring in the documents. What language is being used? How is the creator getting their point across?

Document 8) Who was this document created by? Who is the Audience? What is it (broadside, political cartoon, etc)? Why might it have been created? What events might have led to the creation of this document? If no date is specified, around what time do you believe this document was produced?

Document 8) In your own words, describe what is occurring in the documents. What language is being used? How is the creator getting their point across?

Bonus) Who was this document created by? Who is the Audience? What is it (broadside, political cartoon, etc)? Why might it have been created? What events might have led to the creation of this document? If no date is specified, around what time do you believe this document was produced?

Bonus) In your own words, describe what is occurring in the documents. What language is being used? How is the creator getting their point across?

Analyze all of these documents together. What conclusions can you draw about these documents? Do they all agree on the same points and arguments? Do they differ

Do you have any questions about these documents? Is there more you wish you could know? Is there a document that confused you or shocked you?