

Turkey Vulture

(Cathartes aura)

- Turkey Vultures have an excellent sense of smell which allows them to find the dead food they like to eat
- The Turkey Vulture's wingspan is large and impressive, and they are often mistaken for an eagle or an osprey
- They love to fly through open areas like farmland, forest, and rangeland, and at night they like to stay in trees, rocks, or other high and private spots

- Size: Large
- Color: Brown with featherless head