PREFACE

Frederick Law Olmsted, Sr. is widely recognized as America's premier landscape architect. His accomplishments in the fields of park design, conservation, town planning, and landscape architecture have national and international significance. Olmsted's legacy includes city and state parks, school and college campuses, institutional grounds, private estates, suburban communities, zoos, and arboretums. Olmsted was also a passionate advocate for the preservation of America's natural resources and the creation of state and national parks.

After work on such landmarks as Central Park and Prospect Park in New York, Olmsted returned to his native New England to plan the Boston Park System. In 1883 at his home in Brookline, Massachusetts, he established the first full-scale professional office dedicated to landscape architecture in the United States.

This document, the Finding Aid for the NAB/NAC Collection 1871-1972 (bulk dates: 1910-1929), primarily describes a study collection assembled by Olmsted Brothers Firm at their office in Brookline, MA.

This document represents many hours of work recording details about the items herein described. The reader, however, should expect a degree of human error and, consequently, should rely on personal observation of the actual items to determine file contents.

- non-commercial and non-profit study, scholarship, research or teaching
- criticism or commentary
- as an NPS preservation or security copy for research use
- as a research copy for deposit in another institution

If the researcher later uses a copy or reproduction for purposes in excess of "fair use," the researcher is personally liable for copyright, privacy, or publicity infringement and agrees to indemnify the NPS from any legal action as a result of the error. Permission to obtain a photographic, xerographic, digital or other copy of a document doesn't indicate permission to publish, exhibit, perform, reproduce, sell, distribute or prepare derivative works from the document without permission from the copyright holder and from any private individual, group or corporation shown or otherwise recorded.

Permission to publish, exhibit, perform, reproduce, prepare derivative works from, sell or otherwise distribute the item must be obtained separately in writing from the holder of the original copyright (or if the creator is dead from his/her heirs) as well as from any individual(s), groups or corporations whose name, image, recorded words or private information (e.g. employment information) may be reproduced in the source material. The holder of the original copyright isn't necessarily the National Park Service. The National Park Service is not legally liable for copyright, privacy or publicity infringement when materials are wrongfully used after being provided to researchers for "fair use."

INTRODUCTION<sup>1</sup>

The files known as the NAB/NAC Reference Collection is a sub-series of the Reference series within the Landscape Design Records sub-collection of the Frederick Law Olmsted, Sr., Olmsted Brothers and Olmsted Associates Records, 1847-1980 collection. The NAB/NAC Reference Collection consists primarily of a large study collection of magazine clippings, photos, published and, to a lesser extent, original materials that were used as a reference tool by the Olmsted firm. The files encompass a wide range of materials that apparently were accessed by various firm employees seeking practical information or inspiration on design-related topics. Also included in the NAB/NAC Reference Collection are indexes of card files, one arranged alphabetically by author/subject, the other arranged alphabetically by city/state.

The study collection was housed by the Olmsted Brothers Firm within file folders in seven oak cabinets in the lower planting department. Folder titles range from the general to the specific and were formatted in various ways. They primarily include the NAB/NAC classification number and a subject title. These titles vary widely in format (for example, in the section covering flora by location files range from “Plants – Florida” and “Flora, Michigan” to “Bermuda Plants” and “Indiana – Flora”.) The index card files were stored in smaller card file drawers in the same row of oak cabinets.

The NAB/NAC Study Collection files contain a wide variety of materials from numerous sources including articles and plates from magazines, photographs, published studies, landscape and architectural plans, promotional brochures, souvenir publications, newspaper clippings, and some original correspondence and memos. Multiple copies of publications occur occasionally, but are often found in different folders.

The range of topics that are covered represent a comprehensive research tool for subject matter relating to trends in the fields of landscape architecture, architecture, and horticulture. There are a variety of topics covered ranging from broad topics such as Housing, Cemeteries, or US Trees to the more specific such as Picnic Benches and Sand Dune Planting. Factors which affect the landscape or architecture such as pests, insecticides, traffic, irrigation, and pollution are covered. Likewise, files specific to maintenance issues such as tree moving and pruning are included.

The NAB/NAC Card File and the NAB/NAC Card File, Geographic were processed in 1984. The cards were removed from the original locations, surface cleaned and reboxed. No finding aid was created at that time. In the spring of 2003, the NAB/NAC Study Collection was processed as part of an internship project Jill Crook Trebbe, Olmsted Supervisory Archivist and Simmons College GSLIS Student. The files were removed from the original oak cabinets and refoldered.

The folders were given the original folder titles, except where this information was missing. Missing titles were determined from the NAB/NAC Classification scheme and added to the folder in brackets. Folders were refiled in NAB/NAC classification order where misfiled, although historic locations were recorded for future reference. Folders which did not have NAB/NAC Classification numbers were left where they were found in original order. Likewise, empty folders were recorded where found. As part of the processing of the collection, metal fasteners were removed, photographs and materials sensitive to the buffered environment of the folders were interleaved in mylar enclosures, and a box and folder list was created. Folded oversized plans and drawings were indicated on the box/folder list for later removal and processing by the conservation lab. The processor also recorded Olmsted Job related material when it was found within a NAB/NAC folder. This information is helpful to researchers who use the archives to research a particular landscape design project by the firm. Lastly, this information was assembled into a finding aid which describes all of the sub-series: NAB/NAC Study Collection; NAB/NAC Card File; NAB/NAC Card File, Geographic.

The finding aid is divided into five sections:

- Part 1: Collection Description:
  - a scope and content note (or brief synopsis of the collection)
  - an outline showing the organization of the collection
  - descriptions of the various series into which the collection is organized
- Part 2: Historical Note (brief history of the Olmsted firms, the NAB/NAC Classification Scheme as well as biographical notes for Theodora Kimball Hubbard and Henry Vincent Hubbard)
- Part 3: Collection Listing (box and folder list)
- Bibliography

SUB-SERIES DESCRIPTIONS

I. NAB/NAC Study Collection (22 linear feet; 53 document boxes, 5 map folders)

The NAB/NAC Study Collection consists mainly of newspaper and magazine clippings, photos, maps, catalog, plans, brochures and ephemera organized according to NAB/NAC Classification number. Dating mostly from the 1910's through the 1920's, the collection represents a broad range of visual design references and reflects trends in landscape design, architecture, horticulture, and social issues. The collection was apparently used as a reference tool by members of the Olmsted Brothers Firm and The Olmsted Associates Firm seeking practical information about or examples of design-related topics.

II. NAB/NAC Card File (6 linear feet; 6 index card boxes)

This sub-series consists mainly of hand-written index cards arranged alphabetically by author and subject. It serves as an author/subject index to the NAB/NAC Study Collection. Recorded on an individual card are the subject or author reference, the materials in the collection which relate to the particular, and the NAB/NAC classification number on the folder where the material will be found.

III. NAB/NAC Card File, Geographic (1 linear foot; 1 index card box)

This sub-series consists mainly of hand-written index cards arranged alphabetically by city/state location. It serves as a geographic index to the NAB/NAC Study Collection. Recorded on each card is the location, the materials in the collection that relate to that particular location, and the NAB/NAC folder where the material was originally filed.

HISTORICAL NOTE

Olmsted Brothers Firm (1898-1961) and Olmsted Associates Firm (1961-1979) <sup>2</sup>

In 1883, Frederick Law Olmsted (1822-1903) purchased a home in Brookline, Massachusetts and called the property "Fairstead". From 1883-1893, he worked to convert the building into a space that would accommodate both his family home and his professional offices. In 1884, only a year after settling at Fairstead, Olmsted Sr. made his nephew and step-son, John Charles Olmsted (1859-1920), a partner. Olmsted Sr. remained an active partner until 1893 during which time the firm operated under the names of F.L. and J.C. Olmsted, from 1884 until 1889, and F.L. Olmsted and Company, from 1889 until 1893. In 1893, upon his father's retirement, Frederick Law Olmsted, Jr. became a partner along with Charles Eliot. The firm was renamed Olmsted, Olmsted and Eliot until Eliot's death in 1897. Upon Eliot's death, the name was renamed to F. L. and J. C. Olmsted. A year later the name was again changed to Olmsted Brothers. It remained as such until 1961.

The Olmsted Brothers broadened and enhanced the legacy that their father started. As senior partner, John C. Olmsted headed a practice that grew from 600 to over 3,500 commissions at the time of his death in 1920. He and his brother were founding members of ASLA, and John served as its first president, in which capacity he helped to develop the organizations earliest membership standards and professional codes of practice. At its peak, in the 1920's and 1930's, the firm employed between 55 and 60 employees and was a highly departmentalized business that included architects, engineers, plants men and craftsmen. Over the years, to accommodate this growth, a rambling complex of offices was added to the family residence. In 1949, Olmsted Jr. retired and left Massachusetts to return to California. By 1950, the firm employed less than a dozen individuals.

From 1950 until 1961, the Olmsted Brothers firm was managed five partners who continued to consult old clients and new owners of properties once designed by the firm. But by 1961, all but two owners, Artemis Richardson and Joseph Hudak, had either retired or died. By the end of 1961, Richardson bought out Hudak's share of the business and changed the name to Olmsted Associates, Inc. In 1980, the National Park Service bought the property and began restoring the buildings and grounds to their appearance in the early 1930s, the period of the firm's greatest success. Richardson moved the renamed Olmsted Office to New Hampshire where it operated until Richardson's retirement in 2001.

Theodora Kimball Hubbard <sup>3</sup>

Theodora Kimball Hubbard was born in Newton, Massachusetts on February 26, 1887. She graduated from Simmons College 1917. From 1911 until 1924, she was the librarian for the School of Landscape Architecture at Harvard University. A librarian by training, she began her career by creating a bibliographic system for the nascent field of landscape architecture. In cataloguing, codifying and later critiquing the built and written works of the profession, Hubbard was a key player in the establishment of its intellectual and theoretical framework. Her work essentially established a canon for the profession. Hubbard extended her bibliographic work to the field of city planning, eventually conducting research in and comparative analysis of city planning methodology. Prior to her untimely death in 1935, Hubbard had become a well-known figure, editor and writer in both fields. Theodora Kimball married Henry Vincent Hubbard in 1924. Together, they wrote the standard handbook, An Introduction to the Study of Landscape Design, which was published in 1917. Theodora Kimball Hubbard died on November 8, 1935 at the age of 48 in Milton, Massachusetts.

Henry Vincent Hubbard<sup>4</sup>

Henry Vincent Hubbard was born in Taunton, Massachusetts in 1875. He graduated from Harvard University in 1897 and went on to study at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology from 1897-1898. He returned to Harvard where he studied under the direction of Fredrick Law Olmsted, Jr. He received an A.M. in 1900 and a S.B. in 1901, both in landscape architecture. Upon graduation, Hubbard joined the Olmsted Brothers firm. In the following year, he traveled abroad for professional study under Olmsted. In 1906, Hubbard left the Olmsted firm to set up a private practice in Boston. In 1917, he accepted a position as designer in the future Cantonment Branch of the Construction Division, U. S. Army. In 1920, he returned to the office of the Olmsted Brothers and was made partner, which he remained until his death in 1947. In addition to his positions as a practicing landscape architect, from 1906 until 1941 Hubbard taught landscape architecture at Harvard University. Hubbard was also president of the American Society of Landscape Architects from 1931 until 1934.

NAB/NAC Classification Scheme

The classification scheme NAC was developed in 1913 by Theodora Kimball and James Sturgis Pray, Chairman of the School of Landscape Architecture at Harvard University. Together they published City-Planning: A Comprehensive Analysis of the Subject Arranged for the Classification of Books, Plans, Photographs, Notes and other Collected Material. The NAC Classification system was later adopted by the Library of Congress. It is no longer used by LC, but was the first established system designed specifically for the classification of city planning materials.

NAB was created 7 years later by Kimball and Hubbard and was documented in Landscape Architecture: A Comprehensive Analysis of the Subject Arranged for the Classification of Books, Plans, Photographs, Notes and other Collected Material. Frederick Law Olmsted is given special acknowledgment in the Preface of the published classification scheme, for having contributed many constructive suggestions. The Library of Congress originally assigned a place for Landscape Architecture as a sub-classification to architecture (NA) by the addition of the letter (B). The authors thought that this placement most precisely acknowledged the artistic component of landscape architecture, whereas placing it in subclass S, as it is today, would suggest that it is simply another form of agriculture.<sup>5</sup>
