

Teachers Summer Institute

Enhancing Local and Regional Perspectives on Japanese American Incarceration

Free Teachers Institute for High School Teachers
July 29 & 30, 2015

In what ways did place determine the fate of Japanese Americans after the bombing of Pearl Harbor?

Join an informative and dynamic two-day exchange about the incarceration of Japanese Americans across the Pacific West. The institute will be held at the Military Intelligence Service Historic Learning Center, Crissy Field Presidio of San Francisco and the Rosie the Riveter National Historic Park, Richmond.

Utilizing a regional perspective, we dispel the current narrative of a single experience for Japanese Americans as we draw deeper conclusions and understanding of how and why this injustice took place. Case studies will compare pre and post war communities in Hawaii, Seattle, and California.

$200
Stipend

This institute is a partnership between the National Japanese American Historical Society and the National Park Service Dissonant Voices. Partially funded by a National Japanese Confinement Sites Grant and the National Park Foundation.

Application for Teachers Summer Institute

Enhancing Local and Regional Perspectives on Japanese American Incarceration

How to Apply:

$50 refundable application fee is due by May 8. This fee is refundable upon completion of the workshop. We will confirm your enrollment by May 22nd. Application fee cannot be refunded if you cancel after July 5, 2015. For more information: Melissa Bailey: 415 921-5007 or melissa@njahs.org

Make check to National Japanese American Historical Society or NJAHS. Mail, fax, email, or drop off application at 1684 Post St. San Francisco CA 94115

Phone: 415 921-5007 Fax: 415 921-5087 E-mail: njahs@njahs.org

Please print

Name _____

Email address _____

Best phone number _____

Mailing Address _____

School _____ Credential _____

Subjects taught _____

Why I want to attend _____

