Federal Aviation Administration and National Park Service Invite Public Participation Regarding Preparation of an Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) for Actions to Substantially Restore Natural Quiet to the Grand Canyon National Park.

The Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) and the National Park Service (NPS), as co-leads in the environmental process, announce their intention to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) under the provisions of the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) of 1969, as amended.

The EIS will address environmental and related impacts that may result from actions to be proposed and alternatives to be developed to achieve the statutory mandate of Public Law 100-91, (commonly known as the National Parks Overflights Act), to provide for the substantial restoration of the natural quiet and experience of Grand Canyon National Park (GCNP).

NEPA calls on Federal agencies to consider environmental issues as part of their decision making process. NEPA encourages federal agencies to involve interested parties through a process referred to as scoping. Scoping allows interested parties an opportunity to make suggestions early in the planning process.

As part of this process, a 90-day scoping comment period will commence on January 20, 2006. The scoping process for this EIS will include three public participation opportunities during the month of February 2006. Participants are encouraged to come at any time during the 4 hour "open house" to visit informational stations, speak to FAA and NPS representatives, to pick up written information and provide comment. The meetings will be held from 4 pm to 8 pm.

During this period the FAA and NPS are inviting the public, agencies, and other interested parties to provide comments, suggestions, and input regarding but not limited to:

- the scope, issues, and concerns related to the development of proposed and alternative actions at GCNP that provide for the substantial restoration of the natural quiet and experience of the park and protection of public health and safety from significant adverse effects associated with all aircraft overflights;
- past, present, and reasonably foreseeable future actions which, when considered with any alternatives, may result in significant cumulative impacts; and
- potential alternatives.

Interested parties can submit oral and/or written comments at the public meeting representing the concerns and issues they believe should be addressed. Written comments can also be mailed to:
