Navajo Job Shadowing Project postponed at Grand Canyon National Park

Grand Canyon, Ariz. – The Navajo Job Shadowing Project 2007 that was scheduled to take place at the South Rim of Grand Canyon National Park from August 20-31, 2007 has been postponed due to unforeseen circumstances.

The National Park Service (NPS) is still interested in pursuing this type of project with affiliated tribes, including the Navajo Nation, in the near future. The Yavapai/Apache Nation, the Moapa Paiute Tribe and the Kaibab Band of Paiute Indians have all expressed interest in this type of collaborative program. The NPS is looking to reschedule the job shadowing project to coincide with NPS summer seasonal job announcements, which are typically advertised during the winter.
