Welcome to Grand Canyon National Park!

For many a visit to the Grand Canyon is a once in a lifetime opportunity and I hope you find the following pages useful for trip planning. Whether your first visit or your tenth, this planner can help you design the trip of your dreams.

As we welcome over 6 million visitors a year to Grand Canyon, your safety is of the utmost importance to me. I want you to have an enjoyable and memorable visit but most importantly I want you to have a safe visit. Use this information to start planning how you will explore Grand Canyon but don’t be afraid to check-in with park staff when you get here. Our knowledgeable rangers can help perfect any itinerary you put together and ensure you leave with happy memories.

Exploring any park, Grand Canyon included, can have some dangers. Be sure you are drinking enough water and eating salty snacks (if hiking). Look down to see where your feet are, I know the views are breathtaking but don’t forget to keep a safe distance from the rim of the Canyon. Wildlife can be cute or even majestic but maintaining a safe distance and not feeding the animals is best for you and the animal. Just by being aware of these few safety best practices and using all of the trip planning resources available here, I know that you will have a fantastic experience visiting us at Grand Canyon National Park!

Thank you,

Christine Lehnertz, Superintendent

Trip Planner
Weather

SUMMER
June through August on the rims
May to September in the canyon

Beautiful weather shines on the rims, while brutal heat tortures the inner canyon. The high elevation and low humidity causes dramatic changes in temperature from day to night; bring a jacket. The excessive heat in the canyon can be dangerous and even fatal to unprepared hikers. Average rim temperatures range from 48°F (9°C) to 83°F (28°C). Inner canyon temperatures range from 72°F (23°C) to 104°F (40°C).

LIGHTNING DANGER
Common during summer, monsoon storms bring dangerous lightning. When you hear thunder, move away from the canyon rim. Do not stand under trees. Seek shelter inside vehicles, shuttle buses, or buildings; note that shuttle buses only stop at designated bus stops and will not pick you up on the side of the road during a storm. Be aware of possible floods and falling rocks during and after storms.

SPRING AND FALL
April, May, September, and October on the rims.
March, April, October, and early November in the canyon

Come prepared for a variety of conditions during these changeable seasons. May and October are typically dry, but snow on the rims is not unusual. Late April and May feature strong wind on the rims. Seasonable weather in the canyon offers some of the best times for hiking, making permits harder to obtain for overnight camping. Average rim temperatures range from 32°F (0°C) to 63°F (17°C). Inner canyon temperatures range from 56°F (13°C) to 82°F (28°C).

WINTER
November through March on the rims
December to February in the canyon

While the South Rim remains open year-round, the road to the North Rim closes with the first heavy snowfall. Canyon views may be obscured during passing storms, but canyon formations highlighted by snow are unforgettable. Grand Canyon National Park does not refund entrance fees due to weather. The park plows South Rim roads, but temporary closures may occur. Average rim temperatures range from 19°F (-7°C) to 45°F (7°C). Inner canyon temperatures range from 36°F (2°C) to 56°F (13°C).
South Rim

Day Hiking

Hiking in Grand Canyon creates life changing experiences and lasting memories. Proper planning ensures good hiking memories. See page 14 for hiking tips.

Hiking to the Colorado River and back in one day is dangerous and not recommended. Summer heat occasionally causes fatalities. In winter, cold temperatures and slippery trails can cause accidents and hypothermia.

If you desire an overnight hike see pages 15–16 and contact the Backcountry Information Center for permits.

Hiking Tips

Prepare a Day Pack With:

WATER
Pack at least two liters of water depending on hike intensity and duration. Always bring a water treatment method in case of pipeline breaks or repair work.

FOOD
Salty snacks and high-calorie meal(s).

FIRST AID KIT
Include prescription medications, blister care, duct tape, and pocket knife.

MAP OR TRAIL GUIDE
Know your route, including trail quality and water resources.

FLASHLIGHT OR HEADLAMP
Include spare batteries; you may end up hiking in the dark unexpectedly. Cell phones may not provide adequate light and will run out of power.

SUN PROTECTION
Sunscreen, wide-brimmed hat, and sunglasses.

COMMUNICATION
Yelling, a whistle, signal mirrors, and cell phones—while service is limited, phones can be helpful.

EMERGENCY SHELTER
A lightweight tarp provides shade and shelter.

CORRECT GEAR
Layer clothing to protect yourself from the weather. Wear broken-in hiking shoes with good soles. Bring hiking poles to lessen the impact on your joints.

---

Danger!

DAY HIKES TO THE RIVER
Hiking to the river and back in one day is never recommended due to extreme weather, long distances, and a near 5,000-foot (1,500 m) elevation change each way.

HEALTH RISKS
Familiarize yourself with the symptoms and treatment for heat-related illnesses, hypothermia, dehydration, and electrolyte imbalances.

OVER EXERTION
People often have overly ambitious plans and fail to pace and take care of themselves. If you feel unwell, you must rest. Remember it takes twice as long to hike up as it does to hike down.

NO SWIMMING
The Colorado River is fast, wide, and cold (46°F / 8°C) year-round. Do not swim in the river—you will perish!

DO NOT THROW ROCKS
Rocks or other objects tossed over the edge or dislodged by taking shortcuts can injure hikers and wildlife below.

Hike Smart

PLAN
Keys to a successful hike include knowledge, preparation, and a good plan. Grand Canyon is not the place for spontaneity. Always check weather and trail conditions before you hike.

EAT AND DRINK
Snack every time you drink water or sports drink.

REST
Sit down, prop your legs up, and take a 10-minute break at least once every hour. If you do not feel well, rest until you feel better.

LEAVE NO TRACE
Day hikers can leave quite a mark in the canyon—literally. Write a postcard to your friends instead of writing on walls. Take your trash back out with you, including toilet paper. Do not feed the wildlife, and guard your food from food-habituated animals.

Stay together, follow your plan, and know where and how to seek help.

Backpacking

When to Apply
The furthest in advance permit requests are considered by the Backcountry Information Center is the first of the month, four months prior to the proposed start month.

The park begins accepting these earliest consideration requests starting about 10 days before the first of the month that is four months prior to the proposed start month. All earliest consideration requests received by 5 pm mountain standard time on the first of the month are randomly ordered for processing. Once this is completed all later requests are considered in the order received.

Apply early! Popular use areas/campsites fill up the first week of the first month they become available for permit requests. Verbal in-person permit requests are only considered for start dates one to three months out.

Written requests are not accepted for permits with proposed start dates less than 21 days out. Only in-person requests will be considered within this time frame.

Permit Responses
Grand Canyon National Park responds to all written requests via US mail only. Please allow at least three weeks for processing. The park issues a permit and mails it to the trip leader when space is available and all fee requirements are met. If you have been denied a permit through the mail, you may want to consider day hikes or attempt to obtain a last minute, walk-up permit in person at the Backcountry Information Center.

Last Minute Permit for Corridor Campgrounds
A limited number of last minute walk-up permits are available at the South Rim and/or North Rim Backcountry Information Center for Corridor Campgrounds (Indian Garden, Bright Angel, and Cottonwood campgrounds). These last minute permits are issued in person only, are for one or two consecutive nights, and cannot be purchased more than one day prior to the start of a hike.
