George W. Carver Junior Ranger Motto

I, _____, will do my best to take care of the National Parks.

I will:

- tell others about protecting the resources in the national parks,
- learn more about African American history,
- be more like George Washington Carver: respectful, kind, and a helper to other people.

Explore, Learn, Protect

George Washington Carver National Monument near Diamond, Missouri is the birthplace and childhood home of the famous scientist and teacher. In 1943 it became the first national park set aside to honor the life of an African American. Mr. Carver worked to help other people so he is often called a humanitarian.

Junior Rangers explore their parks, learn park stories, and find out how to protect our nation's historic and natural wonders.

The Plant Doctor...

Young George's nickname was the "Plant Doctor". George had a little garden hidden in the woods. Use your pencil or the colored pencils upstairs and draw a picture of what you would plant in your secret garden.

The Peanut Plant...

Can you label the parts of the peanut plant?

flower peg stem leaf roots peanut pod

A Carver Video...

Watch the film on George's life and answer the questions below.

1. The Moses Carver farm was located near what Missouri town?
2. Why did George have to move around to go to school?
3. What did George tell farmers to plant, instead of cotton?
4. List one important thing George Washington Carver did during his life.

Trailblazing...

Hike the Carver trail where young George used his curiosity to find out about the world around him. Write about or draw three things you see on your hike!

The Carver trail leads to the birthplace site, childhood statue of George, Williams Pond, 1881 Moses Carver House, and Carver Family Cemetery.

Carver the Musician...

George Washington Carver was a musician.

Carver Quotes...

“My education was picked up here and there. Mr. and Mrs. Carver taught me to read, spell and write just a little.”

Geo. W. Carver

“Nothing pleases me more than to take my pencils, paint, brushes, sketch book, pastel board, etc., and spend a day in the woods.”

Geo. W. Carver

“When I was growing up I had a little plot of ground that I turned into a sort of flower hospital and nursed sick plants from all over the neighborhood...”
