In honor of Black History Month February 21, 2015

February is Black History Month, a time to encourage people to explore the history of African Americans, to learn about their struggles, and to celebrate their successes.

On Saturday February 21 at 1:00PM we will be looking into Alexander Hamilton's view of slavery. In New York City in the late 18th and early 19th Century he would have seen slaves every day. In the mid century before the revolution about 20 to 25 percent of the population was enslaved. Slavery was a subject that could have kept the Union unformed if founding fathers had worked to abolished it at the time. How could the fight of free men for their rights have tolerated such a state of affairs.

Additionally, guided tours of the furnished rooms will be given at 10am, 11am, 2pm and 4pm.

Open-house hours: 9am-10am, 12pm - 1pm and 3pm - 4pm

Admission is free!
