

Haleakalā National Park 2014 Call for Cultural Practitioners

Beginning in June 2014, Haleakala National Park will host a series of Native Hawaiian cultural demonstrations in the Kīpahulu District of the park. The park seeks cultural practitioners who will demonstrate Native Hawaiian crafts or arts and engage visitors during their activity.

Through support from our non-profit partner, the Hawaii Pacific Parks Association, an honorarium of $200 will be offered to each group of practitioners. Hawaii Pacific Parks Association will also offset the purchase of supplies (up to $200) to be used by visitors during a demonstration.

Cultural Demonstrations will occur between 1pm and 3pm on the second and fourth Saturdays of each month, starting on June 14, 2014. Please plan on setting up by 12:30pm on the day of your demonstration. Plan on 100-200 visitors taking part in your activity during this time. Please note that practitioners will not be allowed to sell any products or collect tips in the park.

One 10x15 tent, some chairs, and 1-2 small tables will be available for practitioners to use. Any additional set-up equipment will need to be provided by the practitioner.

If you are interested, please fill out this form completely and email or postal mail it to the park by Friday, April 18, 2014. Only complete applications will be considered. Forms are also available at any Haleakalā National Park visitor center or at www.nps.gov/hale/supportyourpark. (Click on the “2014 Call for Cultural Practitioners” link). Successful applicants will receive a response by Friday, May 2, 2014.
