

Our Family Tell Stories Series

Saturday, February 22, 2015, 2 pm - 3:00 pm
In the Orangery at Hampton National Historic Site

Join us for another “funtastic” afternoon of Afrocentric storytelling with the very talented, Diane Macklin. The “Lady teller” has delighted audiences for over 15 years, sharing tales through a “dynamic” style (as seen in the Washington Post) seasoned with rhythm, sounds, and movement, engaging listeners of all ages. She has performed from Massachusetts to California for venues such as the National Air and Space Museum, Cincinnati’s Playhouse in the Park, National Association of Black Storytellers Festival and Conference, Wolf Trap’s Theatre-in-the-Woods, Smithsonian National Museum of African Art and the National Storytelling Festival’s Exchange Place. Diane is an active member of the Griots’ Circle of Maryland and the National Association of Black Storytellers.

Bring the entire family for an afternoon of educational fun!

Seating in the orangery is limited and on a first come, first serve basis.
