

Harvest Day on the Farm at Hampton NHS

Sunday, October 11, 2015 from 12:00 p.m.-3:00 p.m.

Crisp cool air, changing leaves, the smell of a cooking fire, and the scent of freshly pressed apples help us leave summer behind, welcome fall, and prepare for the long winter ahead. Volunteers and staff at Hampton dressed in 1800s period attire invite visitors to learn more about the work required to prepare for the winter. Scythe demonstrations are included in a fun filled afternoon for the family- come ready to help as we always need extra hands to reap the harvest.

Food Historian, Michael Twitty will demonstrate 1800s African American influenced open pit cooking on the “overseer’s house” front lawn.

Local dairy farmer and “dairy princesses” will show you how to milk a live cow.

Ranger Anokwale will tour visitors through the dairy, slave quarters and overseer’s house.
