Hawai'i Volcanoes National Park will unveil a new museum that will exhibit material from a very large collection of objects that is in excess of 1.5 million items. Join Cultural Resources Manager Laura Carter Schuster on Tuesday and Saturday as she reveals the history and highlights of this vast collection. Learn about the exciting plans for exhibiting the objects in the original 1932 park Administration Building, formally a lodging facility known as the ‘Ohi‘a Wing.

Program co-sponsored by Friends of Hawai'i Volcanoes National Park. For information, call (808) 985-6011. Your donation helps support park programs. Park entrance fees apply.
