On Tuesday, travel back in time to 1916 with Park Archeologist Dr. Jadelyn Moniz-Nakamura as she shares the story of the development of Hawaii National Park. Learn about the individuals who pushed for a park because of their fascination for this place and because they recognized the need for preservation so that future generations could enjoy the fantastic eruptions and magnificent landscapes. On Saturday, walk with a ranger to see and hear stories of how the park developed over 100 years ago and the role Volcano House played in the park's early history.

Program co-sponsored by Friends of Hawai'i Volcanoes National Park. For information, call (808) 985-6011. Your donation helps support park programs. Park entrance fees apply.
