
The Newark Earthworks and the Nazca Lines: A Peruvianist's Perspective

Saturday, September 15 at 2 p.m.

Interpretation Center

Hopewell Culture National Historic Park, Chillicothe

Helaine Silverman, Ph.D.

Professor of anthropology, University of Illinois

FREE AND OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

Dr. Silverman will discuss comparisons between the Nazca lines -which depict animals and also geometric shapes, are glyphs rather than mounds, and were also used for ceremony- and the Newark Earthworks. She will comment on the Newark Earthworks as a site under consideration for World Heritage.
