

St. Louis and the Civil War:

Harper's Weekly Refugees arriving in St. Louis
December 28, 1861

Untold Stories, New Perspectives

FREE Teacher Workshop
Friday, February 3, 2012
8:30 a.m. - 3:00 p.m.
at the Old Courthouse
11 North 4th Street

Sponsored by the National Park Service at Jefferson National Expansion Memorial

Ulysses S. Grant, Jefferson Barracks, Camp Jackson, these are the people, places, and events typically associated with Civil War St. Louis. While they are an important part of the story they do not provide a complete picture of wartime St. Louis. The goal of this workshop is to shed more light on homefront St. Louis using fascinating stories, seldom-seen documents, and fresh perspectives.

Through participation in this workshop, educators will come away with content knowledge, lesson plans, primary source documents and classroom activities addressing the following topics:

- Confederate women of St. Louis - Dr. Thomas Curran, Cor Jesu Academy
- Refugees in St. Louis - National Park Service staff
- Bellefontaine Cemetery, a Civil War resource - Jean Steck, Bellefontaine Cemetery
- Court records and the Civil War - Michael Everman, Missouri State Archives
