

Habitat: a place that is self contained with adequate energy, shelter and water for a species to survive.