

Playas form in dry regions of the country primarily in the south plains. They may be dry most of the year, but catch rain fall. Vegetation may be sparse and the edges.