

National Park Service
U.S. Department of the Interior

Klondike Gold Rush National Historical Park
319 Second Avenue South
Seattle, WA 98104

Klondike Gold Rush National Historical Park News Release

Release Date: February 20, 2015

Contact: Julie Fonseca de Borges, Julie Fonseca de Borges@nps.gov, (206) 220-4231

Celebrate International Women's Day with a Klondike Adventure

SEATTLE, WA – Klondike Gold Rush National Historical Park and Living Voices are celebrating International Women's Day with the premiere of Klondike: The Last Adventure. The new production follows the journey of Eliza, a young woman who travels to the Yukon gold fields in search of adventure and fortune. The event combines theatre, video, and live interactions to produce an engaging family event.

The no-cost performance will take place in the park's theater on March 8th at 2pm. While admission to the park and the performance are free, seating is limited. Additional performances are scheduled throughout spring and summer.

For more information, please contact (206) 220-4240.

Klondike Gold Rush National Historical Park -Seattle is one of more than 400 National Park Service sites across the country. Klondike promotes and preserves Seattle's role in this country's last great gold rush that captured the imagination of people from throughout the globe. The park is open daily from 10am to 5pm. Learn more at nps.gov/klse.

###

Photo: Klondike: The Last Adventure, the latest production from Living Voices, was produced with support from 4 Culture. Courtesy of Living Voices.