PREFACE

This document, the Finding Aid for the Charles Appleton Longfellow (1844-1893) Papers, 1842 – 1996 (bulk dates: 1862 – 1891), describes the personal papers of Charles Appleton Longfellow (1844 - 1893), traveler, yachtsman, and the elder son of poet Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. The collection consists of approximately 8.50 linear feet (approximately 15,300 items) of correspondence, bound journals and scrapbooks, and manuscript maps. Staff working for Historic New England (operated by the Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities) processed the bulk of these papers under Contract #1720-03-0902 for the Northeast Museum Services Center (NMSC) during the spring and summer of 2004 and produced a draft finding aid. .25 linear feet of materials, previously unidentified, was added to the collection by Margaret Welch, Archivist, NPS, in Summer and Fall 2006. The finding aid of the earlier cataloguing project is obsolete with the release of this document.

The contractor thanked the LONG staff, particularly Anita Israel, Archives Specialist, Janice Hodson, former Supervisory Curator, David Daly, Collections Manager, and Jim Shea, Site Manager. The contractor also thanked the staff at the NMSC for their assistance in carrying out this work. The LONG staff, now including Lauren Malcolm, Museum Technician, has continued their invaluable assistance in the project.

RESTRICTIONS

The copyright law of the United States (Title 17, United States Code) governs the making of photocopies or other reproductions of copyrighted materials. The Privacy Act of 1974 (5 United States Code 552a) governs the use of materials that document private individuals, groups and corporations.

Under certain conditions specified in the law, libraries and archives are authorized to furnish a reproduction if the document does not infringe the privacy rights of an individual, group or corporation. These specified conditions of authorized use include:

- non-commercial and non-profit study, scholarship, research or teaching
- criticism or commentary
- as a NPS preservation or security copy for research use
- as a research copy for deposit in another institution

If the researcher later uses a copy or reproduction for purposes in excess of "fair use," the researcher is personally liable for copyright, privacy, or publicity infringement and agrees to indemnify the NPS from any legal action as a result of the error. Permission to obtain a photographic, xerographic, digital or other copy of a document does not indicate permission to publish, exhibit, perform, reproduce, sell, distribute or prepare derivative works from the document without permission from the copyright holder and from any private individual, group or corporation shown or otherwise recorded.

Permission to publish, exhibit, perform, reproduce, prepare derivative works from, sell or otherwise distribute the item must be obtained separately in writing from the holder of the original copyright (or if the creator is dead from his/her heirs) as well as from any individual(s), groups or corporations whose name, image, recorded words or private information (e.g. employment information) may be reproduced in the source material. The holder of the original copyright is not necessarily the National Park Service. The National Park Service is not legally liable for copyright, privacy or publicity infringement when materials are wrongfully used after being provided to researchers for "fair use."

This institution reserves the right to refuse to accept a copying order if fulfillment of the order is judged in violation of copyright or federal or state privacy or publicity law. This institution also places restrictions on the use of cameras, photocopiers and scanners in the research room.

INTRODUCTION

The Charles Appleton Longfellow (1844–1893) Papers document the life of the oldest child of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow and his wife Fanny Appleton Longfellow. They are comprised primarily of journals and correspondence created by Charles during a lifetime spent traveling the globe. Topics include chronicles of what he saw as a 19th century traveler in locations such as Japan, Russia, China and South America; his descriptions of the people he met along the way; and extensive documentation about yachting expeditions, a pastime that occupied much of his time.

In February and March 2001, Longfellow Archives Specialist Anita Israel, former NPS/SPNEA¹ Archivist Jennifer Lyons, and former NPS/SPNEA Senior Cataloguer Margaret Welch made a survey of the unprocessed manuscripts in the Longfellow National Historic Site (LONG) Archives. The papers of individual Longfellow and Wadsworth family members composed most of this unprocessed material. Longfellow National Historic Site staff and members of NMSC discussed the final arrangement of these papers in October 2002 and agreed on a multi-year plan for cataloguing them.² NPS/SPNEA Archivist Margaret Welch, working under a contract between NPS and Historic New England did the initial arranging of the Charles Appleton Longfellow collection in spring 2004. Elisabeth Doucett, SPNEA contract cataloger, processed the collection and developed the finding aid in the spring and summer of 2004. Welch added a small amount of materials in 2006 and revised the finding aid.

The initial survey and subsequent examination revealed that several persons including the Alexander Wadsworth Longfellow Sr. family and the family historian Henry Wadsworth Longfellow Dana annotated the documents from this collection. This observation corresponds with the papers' history. The Alexander Wadsworth Longfellow Sr. family held much of the papers after Charles' death in 1893 because his cousin Alexander Wadsworth Longfellow, Jr. (1854-1934) was executor of the estate. Alexander's sister Mary King Longfellow, in turn, gave these materials to Dana before her death in 1945 to keep in the Longfellow House archives. Dana and his assistant Thomas de Valcourt, before NPS management of the Archives, probably moved the correspondence written to his sisters from their papers to those of Charles. Because Dana's and de Valcourt's arrangements may themselves serve as historical evidence, they have been disrupted as little as possible. These papers have been heavily used since the NPS took over the archives in 1972, and it is possible that some of the papers have been inadvertently rearranged.

The photographs identified as having been owned by Charles were catalogued during fiscal year

¹ Historic New England became the public name of the Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities in June 2004.

1999 and 2000 (FY 99 and 00) Photos project. Information about this project and the descriptions of the photographs, previously published in the Collection Guide: Charles Appleton Longfellow Papers, Photographs (NMSC, Fall 2002), are included in this document.

The material that was processed was arranged into series and rehoused into acid-free folders and archival boxes. All paper clips, staples, and other metal fasteners were removed. Items were flattened before their removal when necessary. Some newspapers were left folded due to their extremely brittle nature. The photographs in this collection were previously removed from the collection for the FY99 and 00 Photos project with separation sheets created to cross-reference the removed photographs to their original locations in the papers. The photographs were rehoused and described in this earlier project.

The Finding Aid for the Charles Appleton Longfellow (1844-1893) Papers, 1842 – 1996 (bulk dates: 1862 – 1891) is divided into the following sections:

1. Collection Description
 - a. Includes a Scope and Content note as well as the Series Descriptions
2. Biographical Data
 - a. Contains both a chronology of the life of Charles Longfellow as well as a more detailed biography
3. Collection Listing
 - a. A box and folder listing for each series
4. Bibliography
5. Appendices
 - a. Includes documentation of photographs.

Description: The Charles Appleton Longfellow (1844-1893) Papers consist primarily of photographic materials, journals, correspondence, and a variety of personal items related to Longfellow and his life as a traveler and yachtsman. Highlights include the photographs he obtained while traveling and living in East Asia from 1871 to 1873 and the extensive and detailed journals that he kept during most of his adult life. Also part of this collection is his correspondence with various members of his family, most particularly with his sister Alice Mary Longfellow with whom he had a close relationship throughout his life.

Cross-references: Charles Appleton Longfellow’s clothing, other personal possessions, and the objets d’art he purchased abroad reside at the Longfellow National Historic Site and are described in separate catalogue records.

The Longfellow National Historic Sites also holds books owned by Longfellow including military manuals, Japanese vocabulary books, books in French, and children’s books. They are described in separate catalogue records.

Additional papers of Charles Appleton Longfellow are deposited at the Houghton Library at Harvard University as part of Letters to Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, 1761 – 1904 (inclusive) 1820 – 1888 (bulk.) (Location: Houghton bMS Am 1340.2-1340.7. Electronic finding aid available at <http://nrs.harvard.edu/urn-3:FHCL.Hough:hough00355>, accessed 29 June 2004). Some juvenilia is in the Henry Wadsworth Longfellow Papers (bMS Am 1340).

The photographs from this collection have already been processed at the item level and described in Collection Guide: Charles Appleton Longfellow (1844-1893) Papers: Photographs, 1859-1891 (Bulk dates 1866-1892) (NMSC, Fall 2002).

Charles's art is included in the Longfellow, Appleton, and Dana Art Collections (various catalog numbers).

Photographs Charles acquired in Korea reside in the collections of the Peabody-Essex Museum (Salem, Massachusetts).

SERIES DESCRIPTIONS

The Charles Appleton Longfellow³ Papers are divided into 14 series. Throughout the collection items have been removed as dictated by form or content. Separation sheets are inserted in the location from which an item was removed, and copies of the separation sheets are stored with the removed item itself.

Series I. Journals

Daily records made by CAL throughout his numerous trips and excursions, the journals range from simple notes about wind and weather conditions to detailed descriptions of and stories about people, places, customs and adventures. CAL's journals comprise the bulk of his personal papers. The journals are arranged chronologically.

Of particular interest are the Civil War papers kept by CAL. While he was in the Union Army for only a short time (primarily in 1863) he did keep a journal of his activities as a soldier and additionally wrote detailed letters home to his family. As a result the journal, in tandem with his correspondence (both within this collection and the correspondence to Henry Wadsworth Longfellow at Houghton Library), provide a detailed description of the life of a young officer dealing with the complexities of duty in the Civil War.

Series II. Correspondence – Outgoing

Letters from CAL are arranged alphabetically by the recipient and chronologically within that context. His letters to his sister Alice Mary Longfellow are of particular richness, given that the two siblings kept up a detailed correspondence in which CAL consistently endeavored to share the images of where he had been and what he had seen.

Series III. Correspondence – Incoming

Letters to CAL are arranged alphabetically by the correspondent's surname and chronologically therein. A substantial number of the incoming correspondence relates to CAL's Civil War service and the friendships he developed during that time. Additionally there are incoming letters to CAL in Japanese that have not yet been translated.

Series IV. Personal Materials

³ Henceforth, Charles Appleton Longfellow will be referred to by the acronym CAL where appropriate.

The Personal Materials series encompasses a broad array of items from CAL's penmanship copybooks to address books and notebooks. Arranged chronologically, brief descriptions are provided for the address books and notebooks, as their content will amplify other areas of the collection.

Series V. Scrapbooks

The Scrapbooks series contains five scrapbooks (one has been moved to Oversize) pertaining primarily to yachting and the Civil War. Arranged chronologically.

Series VI. Financial Records

The Financial Records series is comprised mainly of account books and receipts for goods purchased. Arranged chronologically.

Series VII. Estate Documents

The Estate series contains a CAL estate appraisal and CAL estate distribution documents. Arranged chronologically.

Series VIII. Maps & Charts

This series contains map tracings by CAL of the West Coast of Scotland, the Samoa, Fiji and Cook Islands, and two different sets of coastline in Massachusetts. Arranged chronologically.

Series IX. Collected Materials

The Collected Materials series contains a wide variety of items other than correspondence, such as calling cards and books owned by CAL. Included are four books on military tactics or terminology dating from the Civil War.⁴ The materials are arranged chronologically.

Series X. Research Materials

The Research Materials series contains biographical material such as news articles and research notes that are arranged chronologically.

Series XI. Separated Items

⁴ Additional books are in the library.

This series includes materials that have been removed from other parts of the collection due to their size and the likelihood that the materials could be stressed by box movement if they remained in the standard size archival boxes. These materials are comprised primarily of journals, logs and address books.

Series XII. Oversize Materials

The oversize materials are comprised primarily of scrapbooks, log books, map tracings and documents regarding CAL's military service. These items are grouped together because of their common size. They were removed from their respective collection, foldered and stored in five oversize flat boxes. The oversize items' location can be found on the oversize list in the collection listing section of this finding aid.

Series XIII. Newsprint Materials

Newsprint primarily contains newspaper articles or notices that were stored inside CAL's journals. They cover multiple topics but the majority focus on yachting related events or the Civil War.

Series XIV. Oversize Newsprint Materials

The majority of the oversize newsprint materials were also found folded inside CAL's journals. These items are larger than 8 ½ x 11 inches. The greater part of the articles focus on yachting or crew regattas.

Series XV. Photographic Materials

See Appendix A "Photographic Materials Documentation."

Biography

For me, my craft is sailing on,
Through mists to-day, clear seas anon.
What'er the final harbor be
'T is good to sail upon the sea!

John Kendrick Bangs (1862-1922)¹³

Adventure, sailing, and foreign lands – thus could be summarized the passions of Charles Appleton Longfellow. The elder son of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, Charley as he was known to family and friends, rarely missed an opportunity to try new experiences, loved the adventure of being a yachtsman, and reveled in the exhilaration of traveling to distant and exotic locations across the world. Indeed, he was unique for his time in seeking out and seizing every opportunity for exploration, voyaging and experience of the unfamiliar.

Charles grew up in the center of a large, loving and very traditional New England Yankee family. Born on June 4, 1844 to Frances Elizabeth Appleton Longfellow and the poet Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, Charley was the eldest of six Longfellow children. He was followed by Ernest (1845), Frances (1847), Alice Mary (1850), Edith (1853) and Anne Allegra (1855). The family lived in the Craigie House on Brattle Street in Cambridge, Massachusetts.

Even from his earliest days Charles was an adventuresome little boy, as indicated by his father in a letter to a family friend: “Charley, the oldest boy is three years old, lithe and limber and straight as an Indian, with two little sharp eyes, that make holes in one. He is very wild and willful, and rather disposed to bully his mother.”¹⁴ These character traits continued throughout his youth, and were exemplified by an accident in which he lost his thumb to a gun in April of 1856.

Charles' mother died in a tragic accident in 1861 when he was only 17, leaving Charles, his brother and his three sisters to be raised by their father. Charles and his sister Alice Mary Longfellow developed a particularly close relationship, as evidenced by their consistent correspondence to each other, particularly during the early years of Charles' travels.

In March of 1863, ignoring his father's cautions that he was too young to be a soldier, Charles ran off to join the Union Army. In spite of his concern over Charles' youth and inexperience, Longfellow decided ultimately to support him in his military career, giving his permission to enlist.

¹⁴ 23 November 1847, HWL to Ferdinand Freiligrath, Hilén, III, 141.

Charles was happily enlisted as a private in the Union Army (Battery A, 1st Massachusetts Artillery) and was subsequently commissioned as a second lieutenant in the Massachusetts Volunteer Cavalry. He saw some action through various skirmishes with the Confederate army but had to go out on medical leave over the summer of 1863 due to contracting typhoid/malaria fever. He returned to his unit at the end of the summer and was wounded in the back at Mt. Hope Church, Virginia on 27 November 1863 during the Mine Run Campaign. His father and brother rushed to Washington to tend to him. He was unable to recover sufficiently to go back to the Army and was discharged from service in February 1864 because of medical disability.

From that time on, Charles lived a life focused around two key areas: yachting and traveling. He had been introduced to yachting by his uncle Thomas Gold Appleton and found that it suited his desire for adventure and excitement. He was able to pursue that passion as well as traveling because an inheritance from his mother's side of the family made him independently wealthy, allowing him to dispense with employment. His yachting generally was focused on either the waters of New England or the shores of Great Britain and France. His traveling covered the world but he seemed particularly intrigued in seeing places not normally visited by Americans and Europeans.

The years immediately after the Civil War provide a good example of how Charles indulged his two loves. In 1865 he traveled to Northern Africa and Italy. In 1866, after an effort studying law at Harvard, he sailed on his uncle's yacht "Alice" on a trans-Atlantic voyage to England, a feat considered daring at the time given the small tonnage of the "Alice," for a summer of yachting.¹⁵ At the end of that year he went to Russia with his uncle Nathan Appleton, Jr., traveling to St. Petersburg, Moscow and Novgorod. In the summer of 1867 he again went yachting off the coast of England. In 1868 he went to India where he stayed for over a year in a peripatetic lifestyle, traveling and sightseeing. This pattern was repeated throughout his life with occasional prolonged stays at destinations he particularly enjoyed.

Charles had several highlights in his travels. In 1868 he embarked for India where he proceeded to stay for the next fifteen months. His observations offer an intriguing perspective of the state of India roughly ten years after the Sepoy Mutiny that ended the rule of the British East India Company. He was able to go tiger hunting, elephant riding and meet maharajas and princes. Additionally during several months over the summer of 1869, Charles traveled into the Himalayan region of Northern India, an area rarely penetrated by Americans or Europeans. His journal images of the people and landscape provide a vivid portrait of a region completely foreign to most of the world.

Another intriguing segment of Charles' travels was his expeditions to Japan. In 1871 he left the United States for that country. Given that Japan had only been partially opened to outsiders in 1854, Charles had the unique opportunity of seeing a country and culture that had had very little interaction with the outside world. He spent much of his time traveling across the country to locations never before visited by Europeans or Americans. In fact, Charles became so enamored of the country that he stayed much longer than originally planned, buying and living in a Japanese house, wearing Japanese clothes and associating on a regular basis with the native-born Japanese. Charles returned to Japan in 1885 and again in 1891.¹⁶

Charles did so much sailing and yachting that he was an expert on the topic. Many of his journals are very detailed descriptions of the wind and weather conditions for his sailing adventures. Taken as a whole they provide an excellent reference resource to anyone studying the nature of sailing and yachting in the 19th century.

Charles never settled down, entered a profession, or married but continued to find his “calling” in the constant exploration of the world and the challenges of sailing. He died in 1893 at the age of 48 in Cambridge of pneumonia, although his obituary indicated that he had been ill with a medical problem for well over a year before that time. In the book Russian Life and Society by his uncle Nathan Appleton, additional insight is provided into Charles’ death:

After much traveling and residence in many lands, shortly after his return from a trip to Tahiti with his friend T. Watson Merrill, in the spring of 1892, he [Charley] had a sudden stroke of paralysis, from which he never recovered. Passing the summer with his sister Miss Alice Longfellow, at the old Nahant Cottage, he returned with her in the autumn to the historic home at Cambridge, formerly Washington’s headquarters, and after living all the winter and appearing somewhat better, he died April 13, 1893, at the age of forty-nine [sic].¹⁷

¹⁶ His descriptions of Japan and the Japanese people have been of such interest to historians that three recent books focus on his life during this time period: Charles Appleton Longfellow: Twenty Months in Japan, 1871 - 1873 edited by Christine Wallace Laidlaw (Newbury, Mass., 1998); Rongufuero — Nihon Taizaiki edited by Kumiko Yamada (Tokyo, 2004); and Christine Guth, Longfellow’s Tattoos: Tourism, Collecting, and Japan (Seattle, 2004) (the last book was not available during the processing of this collection).

Note: The spelling of place names has been corrected.

1. Boston to Florida Journey, 6 March 1862 – 23 May 1862
Journal describing trip made with Billy Fay. Includes descriptions of New Orleans during wartime and sketches of ships and locations seen throughout the journey, such as the drawing of half-sunk ironclad vessel, the C.S.S. "Manassas." Includes one page identifying sources of income for 1865.

See Box 10, Folder 1 for: Civil War Journal, 14 August 1863 – 9 December 1863

2. Copy of Civil War Journal, 14 August 1863 – 9 December 1863
Copy of Charles A. Longfellow Civil War diary (previous entry) [in hand of Alice Mary Longfellow], detailing time spent in Maryland, Washington, D.C. and Virginia. Mentions being wounded at New Hope Church, Virginia on November 27, 1863. Last two pages in hand of CAL.¹⁸
3. Travels in Spain, North Africa and Italy, 28 October 1864 – 1 February 1865
Journal describing voyage from New York to Gibraltar, Tangiers, Malaga, Granada, Palermo, Naples, Sorrento, Salerno, Paestum, Pompeii and Florence. 32 lessons in Italian and French at back.
4. Trans-Atlantic Journey and English Yachting Expeditions, 10 July 1866 – 13 October 1866
Details trip from Nahant, Mass. to Cowes, England as well as summer of yachting along coast of England on the yacht "Alice," visit to France, return to England. Provides a good perspective of Atlantic transits. 66 French lessons, "Rules for Finding Latitude at Sea" at end of book.¹⁹
5. Longfellow Family European Trip, 27 May 1868 – 25 June 1868
Journal describing excursion to Europe with his father, sisters, aunts and uncles. Mentions ceremony at Cambridge conferring LL.D. degree on HWL. Vivid account (June 25) of the Henley Regatta at Henley-on-the-Thames. As a whole provides a good sense of European travel by affluent Americans in the mid-1800s.

6. Yachting Journal, 3 August 1868 – 24 September 1868
Describes yachting trip on board Lord Southwell's yacht "Avalanche" to ports in England and France. 14 August entry hints that CAL had an affair of the heart during the prior year in Paris.²⁰
7. Travels through India, 10 October 1868 – 26 November 1868
Detailed descriptions of Indian cities (particularly Bombay) and customs. November 10 entry describes meeting and hunting with the Raja.

See Box 10, Folder 2: Travels in India, 24 October 1868 – 7 January 1869

a detailed account of a “Down East” yachting trip. Entries written by several different hands.

2. Trip to Havana and Yucatan Peninsula, March 1875

Describes the city of Havana and surrounding countryside. Details trip across the Yucatan from Progreso to capital of Merida, depicting the countryside, people, food. Language in journal is more elaborate and self-conscious than in prior journals, indicating the journal may have been consciously written for an audience and/or future publication.

3 (a & b). Mexico, [March-April] 1875

Good description of Mexican Indians, the scenery between Yucatan and Mexico City, Mexico City itself, local customs (the blowing up of Judas), trip to Pachuca to visit silver mines, trip to Popocatepetl’s volcano.

On page 22 there is a note (crossed out) of the author having met “a son of Longfellow the poet” and an amusing conversation that son had with the German minister. Two potential reasons for this note come to mind:

1) CAL was copying the journal from another source and inadvertently missed the reference to himself when copying.³¹

2) As noted in the first portion of this journal (Box 3, Folder 2) it appears that CAL may have planned eventually to publish his notes as a book. In that case he may have been referring to himself in the third person in an attempt at a literary style which he later decided to eliminate.³²

4. Mexico, [March-April] 1875

Incomplete copy of journal in Box 3, Folder 3. Starts in CAL’s hand, switches to hand of his sister Anne Allegra Longfellow Thorp.

5. Yachting off England, Ireland and Scotland, 22 June 1880 – 7 September 1880

Journal of cruise on yacht “Intrepid.” This journal appears to be a shortened, less detailed version of the journal below (Box 3, Folder 6). Possibly CAL did this journal first and then wrote the below, expanded version afterwards as this journal has cross-outs and errors that are not contained in the second version.

6. Yachting off England, Ireland and Scotland, 30 June 1880 – 10 September 1880

³¹ This may have been an entry in the journal of Jose Marti (1853-1895) (communication from LONG staff February 2005).

³² 26 December 1876, HWL to Anne Allegra and Edith Longfellow, Hilen, Vol. VI, 214. This letter reinforces the theory that CAL was preparing his journal for publication. In his letter, Longfellow notes that “Charley has gone up to his room to work on Mexico.”

Description of yachting on the “Intrepid.” Majority of yachting was done to Scottish destinations. Stops included Belfast, Fort William, Glasgow, Isle of Skye, Inverness, Edinburgh and Brighton. Interesting description of trip through the Caledonian Canal of Scotland.³³

See Box 10, Folder 11: Yachting West Indies, North Africa, Europe, 4 May 1882 – 24 December 1882

7. Europe and Africa, 30 January 1883 – 19 September 1883
Describes separate yachting ventures on the “Namouna”: 1) From France to Italy & Egypt; 2) Southampton to Cowes, England; 3) Holland; 4) Ostend through Scandinavia, including Copenhagen, Stockholm, Kiel – Germany, Christiania – Norway; 5) Alexandria to Liverpool. Menus for meals onboard (March 12, 13-31, April 1-31) are in front of journal on unused pages, upside down.³⁴

Folder:

1. Log Entries, New England to West Indies, 20 November 1883 – 22 November 1883
Several log entries on cruise from New England to West Indies on yacht “Fortuna.”^{35 36}
2. West Indies Journey on the “Fortuna,” 20 November 1883 – 1 May 1884
Describes yachting trip from the United States to the West Indies with stops in Bermuda, Montserrat, Martinique, Barbados, Trinidad, Grenada, Cuba, Panama.³⁷
3. Journal of Yachting Trip from Boston to West Indies, 11 January 1885 – 11 February 1885
First page contains description of ship and listing of crew and passengers. Has similar observations about wind, weather as log below (Box 4, Folder 4) but contains much more detail about locations visited, including Santiago de Cuba and Havana. Also has additional entries that extend beyond those of journal below (Box 4, Folder 4.)
4. Yachting Trip from Boston to West Indies, 12 January 1885 – 4 April 1885
Yachting on board the “Gitana” in the West Indies and Cuba. Note similar time frame to previous journal (Box 4, Folder 3). It appears this journal is basically a log of weather conditions, wind direction and strength. Later entries become somewhat more detailed about the locations being visited. Note page 21 is in handwriting of Alexander

5. Yachting Cruise around Japan, 13 July 1885 – 10 August 1885 – Volume 1³⁸
On board yacht “Loiterer.” Devotes much time to describing wind and water conditions, possibly because they were sailing into ports not previously visited by Americans or Europeans, due to having special permission from the Imperial Government. Detailed diagrams of harbors such as Ajiro and Kawana off the Izu Peninsula.
6. Journal of Cruise in Japan, 16 August 1885 – 11 October 1885 – Volume 2
Covers trip from Kobe to Nagasaki on yacht “Loiterer.” Describes sailing conditions and scenery. Ends with wreck of “Loiterer” south of Toyko after parting her chains in a typhoon and breaking apart on rocks.³⁹

Box 5 (5.0” legal size)

Folder:

1. Cruise in Japan on Yacht “Loiterer,” 13 July 1885 – 10 October 1885⁴⁰
Covers same time periods as above two journals (Box 4, Journals 5 and 6), discussing yachting along areas of Japanese coast not previously seen by outsiders. Given brevity of entries, may be the original journal with the above two journals being revised (and amplified) versions.

See Box 10, Folder 13: Journal of Yachting Trip, 18 January 1886 – 6 April 1886

2. Journal of Yachting trip, 18 January 1886 – 6 April 1886
Same voyage as above journal (Box 10, Folder 13), yachting to Bermuda, Nassau, Havana, Florida but written much more as a narrative about the experience rather than a description of sailing.
3. Log Book of Yachting on “Alga” off New England and Canada, 19 April 1886 – 22 September 1891
Yachting off New England and Canadian coasts from 1886 – 1891. Newspaper clippings are inserted into log, as is one photograph of “Alga” crew. Some entries (Eastern Yacht Club Cruise 1891) in hand of CAL’s cousin, Alexander Wadsworth Longfellow, Jr.

4. Cruise on the Yacht “Fortuna” from U.S. to Great Britain, 1 June 1887 – 1 September 1887
Description of sail across the Atlantic on yacht “Fortuna” provides a realistic account of what a trans-Atlantic yachting trip was like in the late 1800’s. Details summer spent racing/yachting along the coast of Scotland and England with brief side excursions to Paris.
5. Cruise on the Yacht “Fortuna” from U.S. to Ireland, June 1887
Description of sail across the Atlantic on yacht “Fortuna” similar to journal found at Box 5, Folder 4.) Written on loose-leaf paper versus in a journal.
6. Yachting, England and the Atlantic, 3 June 1888 – 29 June 1888
Description of yachting in the “Fortuna” in England and Scotland during the summer of 1888.
7. Log of Yacht “Fortuna”, England and Trans-Atlantic, 3 June 1888 – 16 August 1888
Describes yachting in England during summer of 1888 and trans-Atlantic journey back to the United States.
8. Log of “Fortuna”, England and Trans-Atlantic, 3 June 1888 – 16 August 1888
Copy of journal above (Box 5, Folder 6.) Describes yachting in England during summer of 1888 and trans-Atlantic journey back to the United States.
9. Travels through South America, 10 December 1888 – 7 April 1889
Journal describing travels in Ecuador, Peru, Chile, Argentina, Uruguay, Brazil, across the Atlantic to England.⁴²

See Box 10, Folder 15: Cruises on “Alga” along New England coast, 25 May 1889 – 5 October 1889 and second set of entries 28 May 1890 – 15 August 1890

APPENDIX A. PHOTOGRAPHIC MATERIALS

DESCRIPTION

Longfellow, an avid traveler and adventurer, enjoyed purchasing stock photographs of scenery and of persons in traditional costumes and occupations during his journeys. He collected the images included in his papers during the following trips: 1866-67 to Russia, 1869 to India, 1874 to the Philippines and Southeast Asia, 1875 to Cuba and Mexico, 1885 to Japan, and 1891 to Australia, New Zealand, and the South Sea Islands.¹⁵¹ One album and additional photographs relate to the daring 1866 transatlantic voyage to the English Channel in the small yacht "Alice" owned by his uncle Thomas Gold Appleton (1812-1884). While living in Japan for twenty months in 1871 to 1873, he not only purchased objects including now rare photographs but also commissioned the important European photographers Felice Beato and Baron Raimund von Stillfried to take his and his companions' portraits.¹⁵² This collection also includes images related to the Civil War in which Charles became a first lieutenant in the Union Army.

These photographic materials have resided in the Vassall-Craigie-Longfellow House at the Longfellow National Historic Site from the time of Charles's death in that house in 1893. Most are part of accession LONG-1, the collections the Longfellow House Trust turned over to National Park Service in 1973.¹⁵³ As with the other collections, the LNHS staff in the 1970s collected these photographs from the attic and other locations in the house and placed them into the archives. The photograph albums and most of the loose photographs have been associated with the manuscript materials since that time. During the survey for the FY 1999 and 2000 project to catalog the unprocessed photographs in the LONG archives, a small number of CAL photographic portraits of unknown provenance and other photographs believed to owned by CAL on the basis of handwritten inscriptions were found intermingled with other collections in twelve manuscript and thirty-five oversize boxes. These items were removed and integrated into the CAL photographs. Other photographs that CAL owned remain intermingled in the stereograph collection.

The cataloguing was undertaken as part of the fiscal year 1999 and fiscal year 2000 project to catalog historic photographs at the Longfellow National Historic Site funded by a grant from Fidelity Investments Foundation and by National Park Service Backlog Cataloguing funds. The work was carried out by the Northeast Museum Services Center and staff of the Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities (now known as Historic New England) working under a cooperative agreement with the NPS. Lauren Malcolm, who had served as a consultant on the publication of the book Charles ¹⁵¹ His journal from 2 January 1891 to 26 May mentions frequently his purchases of photographs: "Looked at photos of Maoris, and at curios in Mr. Craig's shop opposite" [2 February entry] and "Looked over Burton's photos and bought some" [19 August entry].

¹⁵² Christine Wallace Laidlow, ed., Charles Appleton Longfellow: Twenty Months in Japan, 1871-1873 (Cambridge, Mass.: Friends of the Longfellow House, 1998).

¹⁵³ One photograph is from LONG-43, and two photographs are from LONG-81, both gifts of Agnes Swift through the estate of Anne Longfellow Thorp. One photograph is from LONG-70, items removed from the House sometime after 1950 and later returned (see p. 1, Finding Aid to the Dana Collected Correspondence, 1808-1938, issued July 1999) for an explanation of LONG-70).

Appleton Longfellow: Twenty Months in Japan, 1871-1873, catalogued the photographs at the item level in the collection management software for NPS, the Automated National Catalog System Plus (ANCS+) from November 2001 to March 2002 under the guidance of Margaret Welch, Lead Cataloguer for the project.

These collections hold many multiple copies of the same images and other closely related images. In addition, these images are often in different series from one another, so a perusal of one series may not yield all relevant information. The corresponding ANCS+ database, therefore, should be consulted if images of a specific subject or topic are required.

Organization: Note that the numbers correspond to the ANCS+ hierarchy in the corresponding database.

Title: [Tokyo house of Charles Longfellow.]

Description: Front entrance of a large Japanese house, the Tokyo home of Charles Longfellow 1872-1873. A gatekeeper stands next to the gates which have been thrown open revealing a group clustered around the doorway. Four geisha can be seen, including Sokuhe, Matahe and two unidentifiable figures. Part of a lacquer ricksha can be seen behind the gate. The house has a massive tiled roof and wall.

Date and Notes: 1872-1873 were the years Longfellow resided in Tokyo. A Felice Beato photograph of the same women in the same clothing appeared in Italo Zannier's "Verso Oriente" (Florence, 1986). Duplicate image: LONG 1008-2-2-1-254.
