PREFACE

This document, the Finding Aid for Dana Collected Correspondence, 1808-1938 (bulk dates 1857-1934), describes the letters of the extended Dana-Watson family. A draft of this finding aid was issued in June 1997 and was the result of a cataloging project carried out by the Northeast Museum Services Center in 1997. The draft finding aid is obsolete with the release of the current document.

The catalogers would like to express their gratitude towards staff at Longfellow National Historic Site for their assistance in carrying out this work. In particular, thanks must go to Site Manager Jim Shea and Museum Specialist Michele Clark.

This document represents many hours of work recording details about the items herein described. The reader should expect a reasonable degree of human error and consequently rely on personal observation of the actual items.

COPYRIGHT AND PRIVACY RESTRICTIONS

The copyright law of the United States (Title 17, United States Code) governs the making of photocopies or other reproductions of copyrighted materials. The Privacy Act of 1974 (5 United States Code 552a) governs the use of materials that document private individuals, groups and corporations.

Under certain conditions specified in the law, libraries and archives are authorized to furnish a reproduction if the document does not infringe the privacy rights of an individual, group or corporation. These specified conditions of authorized use include:

- non-commercial and non-profit study, scholarship, research or teaching
- criticism or commentary
- as a NPS preservation or security copy for research use
- as a research copy for deposit in another institution

If the researcher later uses a copy or reproduction for purposes in excess of "fair use," the researcher is personally liable for copyright, privacy, or publicity infringement and agrees to indemnify the NPS from any legal action as a result of the error. Permission to obtain a photographic, xerographic, digital or other copy of a document doesn't indicate permission to publish, exhibit, perform, reproduce, sell, distribute or prepare derivative works from the document without permission from the copyright holder and from any private individual, group or corporation shown or otherwise recorded.

Permission to publish, exhibit, perform, reproduce, prepare derivative works from, sell or otherwise distribute the item must be obtained separately in writing from the holder of the original copyright (or if the creator is dead from his/her heirs) as well as from any individual(s), groups or corporations whose name, image, recorded words or private information (e.g. employment information) may be reproduced in the source material. The holder of the original copyright isn't necessarily the National Park Service. The National Park Service is not legally liable for copyright, privacy or publicity infringement when materials are wrongfully used after being provided to researchers for "fair use."

This institution reserves the right to refuse to accept a copying order if fulfillment of the order is judged in violation of copyright or federal or state privacy or publicity law. This institution also places restrictions on the use of cameras, photocopiers and scanners in the research room.

INTRODUCTION

This finding aid describes the Dana Collected Correspondence, 1808-1938 (bulk dates 1857-1934), a compilation of letters associated with the Dana family. The primary force behind the accumulation of this collection was Elizabeth Ellery "Lily" Dana (1846-1939) who was the sister of Richard Henry Dana III (the husband of Edith Longfellow, one of the daughters of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow and Fanny Appleton Longfellow). Miss Dana saved not only her own correspondence but that of other family members, including her father Richard Henry Dana, Jr., (1815-1882), mother Sarah Watson Dana (1814-1907), brother Richard Henry Dana III (1851-1931), grandfather, sisters, cousins, and aunts. The collection also includes newspaper clippings, photographs, natural history specimens, and objects (including textiles) which were sometimes sent along with the letters. Miss Dana organized her collection by bundling groups of letters, often by tying string around them. It is probable that Miss Dana gave this collection to her nephew, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow Dana (1881-1950), or that he acquired it after her death in 1939. Dana, son of Richard Henry Dana III and Edith Longfellow Dana, resided at 105 Brattle Street and acted as the caretaker of his grandparents' home until his death in 1950. The Dana Collected Correspondence collection was accessioned into the Longfellow National Historic Site museum collection as part of LONG-1 when the Longfellow House Trust, which was formed in 1913, donated the Longfellow house and its contents to the National Park Service in 1973. A second set of letters came to Longfellow National Historic Site in February 1995. A Harvard University curator saw a group of materials at an estate auction and realized that the items were associated to the Longfellow house. The auctioneer gave the items to the curator to return to Longfellow National Historic Site. This group of materials, which was comprised of fifty-four books and approximately 3,154 archival papers including letters, postcards, photographs and receipts, became accession LONG-70.

In the 1970s, NPS staff found the bundled letters (those which were part of accession LONG-1) stored in trunks in the basement of the Longfellow National Historic Site. The letters were removed from the trunks and cleaned of the layers of coal dust that had settled on them. The collection was rebundled and moved from the basement due to unfavorable climatic conditions.<sup>1</sup>

About fifteen years passed before the next phase of processing. Funding was provided for backlog cataloging in both fiscal years 1996 and 1997. In the winter of 1997, the projects were undertaken concurrently. Jonathan Bohan and Amy Tasker of the Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities, as part of a cooperative agreement with the National Park Service, worked under the guidance of Diane Godwin and Anita Israel of the Northeast Museum Services Center to complete the processing of the collection. They were aided by Jim Shea, museum

<sup>1</sup>At this time, according to Elizabeth Banks, former employee of Longfellow National Historic Site, information was compiled for each letter, including author, recipient, and date. Unfortunately, this list could not be found when preparing to process and catalog the collection during the most recent project.

manager at Longfellow NHS; Michael Florer, intake curator at Longfellow NHS; and T. Michele Clark, museum specialist at Longfellow NHS.

The catalogers found the letters (which were part of accession LONG-1) stored in nine Record Center cartons. Most had been sorted, although some were not. Those bundles that were sorted were fastened with a rubber band and fronted with an index card on which the year was written with black marker. In addition, some bundles were further organized. From 1869 through 1877, the bundles were sorted into groups labeled "To E.E.D.," "From E.E.D.," "Unidentified Letters," and "Misc. Letters." These designations were added in ink to the index cards or written on a 3x5 inch piece of white paper placed in front of the bundle. From 1924 through the end of the collection, the bundles were sorted by month, and in most cases, by day. This sorting was indicated, month by month, in pencil annotations on the index card at the front of each bundle. This arrangement apparently does not represent the original order. This is evidenced in two ways. First, many letters with wax seal stains on them, indicating that the letters had rested next to envelopes at some point, were not found near envelopes. Second, some letters in the middle of the piles had rubber band remnants adhered to them, indicating that the letters had been on the top or bottom of a bundle at some point in time.

The catalogers rehoused the collection in acid-free folders and archives boxes. Each envelope was surface cleaned and each letter was unfolded and placed, with its envelope (if there was one), in folders labeled and organized by year. Oversize items were removed and placed in oversize boxes. Photographs were removed and placed in seamless open wide envelopes, as were the natural history items. Textiles and other objects were removed and rehoused in chipboard boxes arranged in an oversize box. All removed items were cross-referenced to their original locations by separation sheets. The catalogers organized the collection chronologically by year only. The years 1924-1938 are ordered by month, and, in most cases, by day. However, once the group of unsorted correspondence was organized it was necessary to add letters to these folders. These additions are designated by the folder title, when needed, and by a labeled acid free insert. Letters found grouped in an original bundle were kept together and placed into a separate series titled "Correspondence -- Original Bundles." Letters with unknown dates were foldered and made into another separate series.

Intake Curator Michael Florer made a preliminary survey of these items, which were accessioned as LONG-70, and created a listing of those items which related to the Dana Collected Correspondence collection. Mr. Florer found that most of the letters and postcards in accession LONG-70 were addressed to or were collected by Elizabeth Ellery Dana. However, as is the case with the rest of the collection, he found many letters that were not written to or from her but which had her endorsement on the envelope. This endorsement was usually on the left edge, in pencil, and identified the author, date, and sometimes the recipient and subject. These endorsements were apparently added some time after the receipt of the correspondence, as some are followed by question marks. These appeared even on Miss Dana's own correspondence, indicating that she was guessing the date or author. Applicable items from accession LONG-70 were removed from the Harvard University envelopes in which they arrived at the house and added to Dana Collected Correspondence collection. These items were filed with the remainder of the collection, but were kept separated by folders labeled "(accession LONG-70)" and placed behind the corresponding year.

The Dana Collected Correspondence, 1808-1938 (bulk dates 1857-1934) (both LONG-1 and LONG-70) was cataloged into the Automated National Catalog System as LONG 21808 and this finding aid was drafted. Diane Godwin, archivist with the Northeast Museum Services Center, revised the finding aid and distributed it in final in July 1999.

The finding aid is divided into four sections:

- Part 1: Collection Description:
  - a scope and content note (or brief synopsis of the collection)
  - descriptions of the various series into which the collection is organized
- Part 2: Biographical Data
  - historical sketches of Sarah Watson Dana and Elizabeth Ellery Dana
  - a chart showing the Dana family genealogy
  - a chart showing the Watson family genealogy
- Part 3: Collection Listing:
  - Chronological Correspondence -- a chronological list (the bulk of the collection)
  - Original Bundles of Correspondence -- a list of items found in original order
    - Elizabeth Ellery Dana Correspondence
    - Sarah Watson Dana Correspondence
  - Unsorted and undated Correspondence -- a list of items which were not sorted and not dated
  - Oversize Boxes: a list of items which are larger than the letter size boxes which house the bulk of the collection
    - Legal Size Storage
    - Flat Box Storage
  - Ephemera Storage: a list of artifacts and specimens
    - Natural history specimens
    - Objects
    - Photographs and negatives
- Bibliography.

COLLECTION DESCRIPTION

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

Dana Collected Correspondence, 1808-1938 (bulk dates 1857-1934)

Accession numbers: LONG-1 and LONG-70.

Catalog number: LONG 21808.

Quantity: 42.92 linear feet (approximately 68,672 items).

Storage: 85 letter size archives boxes, 1 legal size archives box, 3 oversize flat boxes, 1 negative envelope box, 1 photograph box, and 1 flat clamshell box.

Location: Longfellow National Historic Site, 105 Brattle Street, Cambridge, Massachusetts 02138-3407, (617) 876-4491.

Description: The collection of Dana Collected Correspondence, 1808-1938 (bulk dates 1857-1934), consists of letters of the extended Dana family collected by Elizabeth Ellery Dana (1846-1939), the sister of Richard Henry Dana III (who was the husband of Edith Longfellow, one of Henry and Fanny Longfellow's daughters). The collection also includes related items such as newspaper clippings, natural history specimens, objects and photographs that were all enclosed with various letters throughout the collection. Most letters are addressed to Elizabeth Ellery Dana; however, also included as recipients are Sarah Watson Dana (1814-1907), Ruth Charlotte Dana (1814-1901) and Richard Henry Dana, Jr. (1815-1882). The main correspondents are Isabella Hazen Dana (1847-1934), Angela Henrietta Channing Dana Skinner (1857-1928), Ruth Charlotte Dana Lyman (1844-1903), Charlotte Dana Lyman (b. 1885), Richard Dana Lyman (1889-1944), and Richard Dana Skinner (1893-1941). Although most of the collection is comprised of correspondence to Elizabeth Ellery Dana, there are some items from her as well. Genealogy was her passion and many letters relate to this subject; however, the bulk of the collection consists of communications between family members.

The collection gives insight into the workings of a family in the nineteenth- and early twentieth-centuries. Letter writing was the most common form of communication among family members or friends living in other parts of the country or even on the other side of town. Married women often moved away from their girlhood homes to live with their husbands. The only way to share their lives on a regular basis, other than visits, was through letters. Although the Dana family had the means to travel and visit their loved ones (and often did), letter writing encompassed a large part of their lives. Sarah Watson Dana, Elizabeth Ellery Dana's mother, often wrote letters home to her mother and sisters in Wethersfield, Connecticut, and to her sister in Canandaigua, New York. Later, Sarah Watson Dana's daughters wrote letters home. Sarah "Sally" Watson Dana Swayne (1842-1902) lived in New Haven, Connecticut, with her husband Walter; Ruth Charlotte Dana Lyman lived in Winnetka, Illinois, with her husband Francis; Mary "Rosamund" Dana Wild lived in Kittery Point, Maine, with her husband Henry (although there are not many letters from Rosamund in this collection); and Angela Henrietta Channing Dana Skinner lived in Detroit, Michigan, with her husband Henry. All but Sarah Swayne and Elizabeth Dana had children. Letters would often be passed around to different family members so everyone could share in the information. These letters and the family's responses are included in this collection. The subjects of many of the letters center around family life. Even after the use of the telephone was available, Elizabeth Ellery Dana and her correspondents continued to write long and informative letters. Miss Dana was such an active letter writer that it is said that at one time her doctor limited her to just ten letters a day.

Letters from Isabella Hazen Dana (1847-1934), Elizabeth Ellery Dana's cousin, are also included in this collection. Like Elizabeth Dana, Isabella Dana never married, and since they were very near in age, they became close friends. Isabella Dana lived in Newport and Boston, not far from Elizabeth Dana, yet she wrote so often that her letters are too numerous to count.

Many of the envelopes have the stamps cut off. Some of the correspondence refers to stamp collecting, including requests for and offers of stamps, indicating that Elizabeth Ellery Dana was a stamp collector, as were other members of the Dana family.

The collection is organized into five series: I. Correspondence -- chronological; II. Correspondence -- original bundles; III. Correspondence -- unknown dates; IV. Oversize Storage; and V. Ephemera Storage.

A short biographical note for Sarah Watson Dana and Elizabeth Ellery Dana are provided in this finding aid.

Cross-references: Other correspondence relating to this collection may be found in the personal papers of the family members mentioned in this finding aid, especially those of Elizabeth Ellery Dana. Many of these papers are also located in the archives of Longfellow National Historic Site.

SERIES DESCRIPTIONS

Series I. Correspondence -- Chronological

The correspondence comprises the bulk of the collection. It consists mainly of personal letters between family members. There are other items one usually finds in a collection of this type, including numerous postal cards and postcards, calling cards, and wedding invitations. Correspondence from businesses is also included. Members of the Dana family enclosed many newspaper clippings within their letters. They also enclosed natural history items, as well as photographs and various objects. These are described below in Series V. Ephemera Storage.

Most of the correspondence is arranged chronologically. Materials which are part of accession LONG-70 are filed where appropriate in the chronological order; however, they are kept in separate folders labeled "(accession LONG-70)" and placed behind the corresponding year.

While most of this series is arranged chronologically by year only, there are two times when this changes:

1. From 1869 to 1877, correspondence is sorted into letters to Elizabeth Ellery Dana, letters from Elizabeth Ellery Dana, miscellaneous letters (meaning letters between other people), and unidentified letters.
2. From 1924 through 1938, the majority of the correspondence is sorted by month and usually day (however, some remains sorted by year only).

It should also be noted that items which arrived as part of accession LONG-70 are not in this differing order, but remain ordered by year only. As the oversize and ephemera series were removed from this series (as well as the other two correspondence series), their sorting order parallels it.

Series II. Correspondence -- Original Bundles

Letters in this series appear to be in Elizabeth Ellery Dana's original bundles, as several bundles included small scraps of paper with her writing on them. Some of these bundles were found tied together with string or ribbon. These letters are kept separate from the bulk of the correspondence, as they are grouped by correspondent, rather than chronologically.

A. Elizabeth Ellery Dana Correspondence

This sub-series consists of ten folders, each containing the contents of one bundle of letters, either sent to or sent by Elizabeth Ellery Dana. Eight of these bundles were found in accession LONG-70.

B. Sarah Watson Dana Correspondence

This sub-series is identical to sub-series A., except that it contains letters to Sarah Watson Dana, Elizabeth Ellery Dana's mother. There are two folders, both from accession LONG-70.

Series III. Correspondence -- Unknown Dates

This series consists of fifty-three folders of unsorted correspondence with no immediately identifiable dates, thus making it impossible to sort into Series I.

Series IV. Oversize Items

These items are grouped together because of their common size. All of the items are intellectually associated with the correspondence in the letter size boxes that house the bulk of the collection. They were removed from the main collection, foldered, and stored in legal and oversize boxes. These items are mostly letters, but include other documents such as genealogical charts, an advertising poster, and a claim to the Colonial Dames.

A. Legal Size Storage

This sub-series consists of one box with sixty-nine folders of correspondence which was too large to fit into the letter size boxes and folders.

B. Flat Box Storage

These items were too large for the letter size and legal size storage. They are stored in two 21 x 17 x 2.5" flat boxes.

Series V. Ephemera

This series is comprised of items other than letters. Except for newspaper clippings (which remain with the correspondence but placed between sheets of acid-free paper), all such items were removed to separate storage.

A. Natural History Items

Natural history specimens were removed from the letters that contained them because of the harm they could cause to the collection if left to decay (some discoloration had already occurred). They are housed in open seamless envelopes and sleeved with acid-free paper. Some of these items include flowers picked by Elizabeth Ellery Dana, some red sea moss from a beach in Manchester, Massachusetts, and ivy leaves from Richard Henry Dana Jr.'s grave in Rome, Italy.

B. Objects

Objects were also removed from the letters due to concern over damage. Many of the objects were textiles which could discolor and stain the letters (in some cases, such damage had already begun). These textiles include an upholstery sample from Henrietta Dana Skinner's home in Detroit sent to her mother, Sarah Watson Dana; fabric samples from tea dresses; and the strings that Elizabeth Ellery Dana used to bundle the letters in this collection. Other objects include hair, bookbinding cloth, and a paint sample (also from Henrietta Dana Skinner's home).

C. Photographs and Negatives

Also removed for concern about damage, the photographs include carte-de-visites, albumen prints, and cyanotypes. They are mostly portraits of family members (there is a large concentration of Lyman family members), but some are of friends of the Dana family and some of the photographs document travel. Postcards made from photographs are housed here as well.

Sarah Watson Dana (1814-1907)<sup>2</sup>

Sarah Watson Dana was born in 1814, the fourth of five children of William (1773-1836) and Mary Marsh (1782-1869) Watson. The family resided in Wethersfield, Connecticut. On 25 August 1841, Sarah Watson married Richard Henry Dana, Jr. (1815-1882) of Boston, the author of Two Years before the Mast. Mrs. Dana viewed the marriage as "a long-awaited opportunity for independence."<sup>3</sup> After marriage, Mrs. Dana devoted her life to the care of her family. The early years of their marriage were spent as nomads, living in small houses and rooming houses. In 1851, the Danas moved into a new home of their own on Phillips Place (later renamed Berkeley Street) in Cambridge. Their land nearly adjoined the land belonging to the poet Henry Wadsworth Longfellow (1807-1882), with whom they became friendly. The Danas had five children when they moved in, and they would have one more afterward. Their only son, Richard Henry Dana III, married Longfellow's daughter, Edith ("Edith with golden hair" of the poem "The Children's Hour") (1853-1915). R.H. Dana, Jr., died in January 1882. In 1887, Sarah had a new house built at 152 Brattle Street, where she lived out the remainder of her life with her daughter Elizabeth Ellery Dana.

Elizabeth Ellery Dana (1846-1939)<sup>4</sup>

Elizabeth Ellery "Lily" Dana was born on 3 April 1846, the third child of Richard Henry Dana, Jr. (1815-1882) and Sarah Watson Dana (1814-1907). Elizabeth Ellery Dana was named after her great-grandmother who was the daughter of William Ellery, a signer of the Declaration of Independence. She was educated at Sarah Porter's boarding school in Farmington, Connecticut, and graduated from Cambridge High and Latin School.

When the Civil War began in 1861, Miss Dana was fifteen years old. She and a group of her friends formed a sewing circle to benefit the soldiers. This group, originally known as "Banks Brigade" (Banks was a Union general), soon became known simply as "The Bees" or "The Bee." The group continued to meet throughout their lives as a social circle and charitable group. In many of Miss Dana's letters, references were made to hosting "a Bee" or going to "a Bee."

In 1865, Miss Dana read a brief Dana genealogy published by Benjamin Dana and it sparked her interest in the subject. For the remainder of her life, she devoted herself to compiling a complete and correct genealogy of the Dana family. During her research, she came upon an unpublished diary of a British officer who was stationed in Boston during the Revolution, and, in 1877, she published excerpts from this diary in the Atlantic Monthly. In 1924, she published the diary in its entirety. Titled The British in Boston, it was printed by Harvard University Press. She also contributed to A Historic Guide to Cambridge, issued in 1907, and to the genealogical column of The Boston Transcript.

The Dana genealogy, meanwhile, progressed very slowly. Miss Dana always seemed to be on the verge of publishing it, even taking subscriptions in 1930. She wrote her own obituary and mentioned the work, saying that it had been completed and would soon be published. However, it was not finished until 1956, following further work by her nephew and grandnephew, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow Dana (1881-1950) and Henry Longfellow deRham (b. 1905). Titled The Dana Family in America, Elizabeth Ellery Dana was credited as the sole author.

Although Lily would spend much time traveling, her primary residence for nearly her entire life was in Cambridge. She lived with and cared for her mother after the death of her father. Following her mother's death, she lived at several locations, usually accompanied by a companion. Most notable among these companions were Miss Wood and Grace Freeman, as she spent several years with each. She saved much of the correspondence sent to her throughout her life and collected many letters sent to her mother, sisters, aunts, grandmother, and other family members. After her death, these papers were retained by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow Dana.

<sup>4</sup>Information for this biography was derived from the collection itself, from Elizabeth Ellery Dana's autobiographical obituary (located in the Longfellow National Historic Site biographical file), and from informal conversations with NPS staff, especially Anita Israel.

Today, this collection makes up a large portion of the archives at the Longfellow National Historic Site.
