

National Historic Lighthouse Preservation Act Notice of Availability

Point No Point Light Station October 6, 2009

The Point No Point Light Station, located near Hansville, Washington has been determined to be excess to the needs of the Federal government. Pursuant to the National Historic Lighthouse Preservation Act of 2000 (NHLPA), this property is being made available at no cost to eligible entities for educational, cultural, historic preservation, or park and recreation uses.

The NHLPA authorizes the transfer of historic lighthouses and stations in addition to establishing a national lighthouse preservation program. NHLPA recognizes the cultural, recreational, and educational value associated with these historic resources by allowing lighthouse properties to be transferred to federal agencies, state and local governments, nonprofit corporations and community development organizations at no cost for educational, cultural, historic preservation, or park and recreation uses through a competitive, merit-based application process. If no new acceptable steward is found, the act authorizes the competitive public sale of the property.

Eligible entities that submit a letter of interest will be sent an application and given an opportunity to inspect the property. The completed application must be submitted to the Department of Interior within 90 days after receipt. The Department of Interior will review applications and select an eligible entity to receive the property. The U.S. General Services Administration will complete the conveyance to the selected recipient.
