Welcome to National Park and National Forest lands of the North Cascades.

Located east of I-5, there are many opportunities for you to enjoy this area with easy access from several major highways. Start in the north and take a drive on the Mt. Baker Scenic Byway (State Route 542). This route begins in Bellingham, winds along the North Fork of the Nooksack River, and, from the town of Glacier, climbs 24 miles to an elevation of 5,100 feet at Artist Point in Heather Meadows. This destination is legendary for spectacular views of Mt. Baker, Mt. Shuksan and surrounding peaks.

For other stunning vistas, follow the northern part of the Cascade Loop along the North Cascades Scenic Highway (State Route 20). A side trip up the Baker Lake Road, 16 miles east of Sedro-Woolley, leads into the Baker Lake Basin, which features campgrounds, water recreation, and numerous trails.

The 125-mile Skagit Wild and Scenic River System – made up of segments of the Skagit, Cascade, Sauk, and Suiattle rivers – provides important wildlife habitat and recreation. The Skagit River is home to one of the largest winter populations of bald eagles in the United States and provides spawning grounds for one-third of all salmon in Puget Sound.

The North Cascades Scenic Highway winds east through the gateway communities of Concrete, Rockport, and Marblemount before reaching Ross Lake National Recreation Area within North Cascades National Park Service Complex.

Along this route, visit the North Cascades Visitor Center near Newhalem and many viewpoints above Gorge, Diablo and Ross lakes which offer pristine perspectives of surrounding peaks. More than 300 glaciers, out of 600 in the ecosystem, cover mountains in the park.

Further to the east, Lake Chelan National Recreation Area features the third deepest lake in the nation. Gaze into the deep, clear waters of Lake Chelan as you boat to the remote community of Stehekin and the Golden West Visitor Center.

Enjoy your visit. Be safe and be prepared.

HIKING TRAILS AND CLIMBING PEAKS

Hundreds of miles of trails lead into the North Cascades. Storm damage may affect your trip, so check road and trail conditions before you leave home. Most long hikes and climbs enter designated Wilderness Areas where special restrictions may apply. Climbers should choose experienced partners or licensed guides.

Use the links on the cover of this guide to check for current recreation reports and climbing information.

BACKCOUNTRY National Forest:

Backcountry camping does not require a permit, but a Northwest Forest Pass is required at most trailheads. Campers in the Mt. Baker National Recreation Area and some areas of the Wilderness must camp at designated sites. Fires are not allowed in most wilderness areas and seasonal fire restrictions may apply.

National Park: Free permits are required for overnight stays in both backcountry camps and cross-country zones and are issued in person only on a first-come, first-served basis. There are more than 200 backcountry camp sites, from boat-in to high alpine backpacking camps. Backcountry camping is allowed only at established sites. Camps include pit toilets, tent pads, and, in some cases, tables and fire pits. Dispersed camping is permitted in cross-country zones most often used by climbers and mountaineers. For permit information, contact the Wilderness Information Center (360) 854-7245 or visit www.nps.gov/nocalplanyourvisit

DO I NEED A PASS?

North Cascades National Park Service Complex does not require an entrance fee or parking pass at trailheads. Use of most developed trailheads, picnic areas, and recreation sites in the National Forest requires a federal recreation pass.

The Northwest Forest Pass is valid in all Oregon and Washington National Forests. The Interagency Annual, Senior, Military, and Access Passes (formerly Golden Access and Golden Age Passports) are also honored at Northwest Forest Pass sites. When in the area, passes can be obtained at ranger stations and some local vendors. You may also purchase passes in advance by calling (800) 270-7504 or online at: www.naturenw.org

Display passes from the rearview mirror or on the dashboard of your vehicle when at a Northwest Forest Pass site.

Day Pass	$5
Annual Pass	$30
Interagency Annual Pass	$80*
Interagency Senior Pass	$10
Interagency Access Pass	free
Interagency Military Pass	free*

* Valid at U.S. Federal Recreation areas.
  Lifetime pass for U.S. citizens 62 and over.
  Lifetime pass for U.S. citizens with permanent medically-determined disability.
 * Annual pass for active-duty U.S. military personnel.

GO FISHING Fishing in Washington, including in national parks and forests, requires a valid Washington State fishing license. Season and special regulations are listed in the Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife Sport Fishing Regulations, available wherever licenses are sold and online at: wdfw.wa.gov

In the national forest, Baker Lake is a popular destination for sockeye salmon and trout fishing. The Skagit River, part of one of Washington's major watersheds, is home to seven species of anadromous fish (all five species of Pacific salmon and two types of trout), freshwater trout, and char.

In the national park, Diablo and Gorge lakes are stocked with rainbow and cutthroat trout. Ross Lake offers quality sport fishing opening annually on July 1. Lake Chelan has fresh water cod, trout and kokanee, a land-locked species of salmon. The Stehekin River offers rainbow and cutthroat trout.

WATER RECREATION River floating is an excellent adventure to plan. Experienced boaters run the Skagit, Nooksack and Stehekin rivers. Ask for a list of local outfitters at any ranger station.

Kayaking, canoeing and motor boating are other options. No personal watercraft (jet skis, water scooters, etc.) are allowed in North Cascades National Park Service Complex. Motorboat and paddling rentals are available at Ross Lake and Lake Chelan. Boat ramps are located at Baker Lake, Gorge Lake, Diablo Lake, Lake Chelan and the north end of Ross Lake at Hozomeen.

HORSEBACK RIDING Stock animals are welcome on trails maintained to stock standards. Trail rules and seasons of use vary and special rules apply in wilderness.

- In designated wilderness, stock parties are limited to 12 pairs of eyes (people + animals) on trails.
- Grazing is permitted in the national forest without a permit. But stock must use weed-free or processed feed while on national forest lands.
- Grazing with a permit is allowed in the Ross Lake and Lake Chelan national recreation areas and can be obtained with your backcountry permit.
- Grazing is prohibited in the national park; pack in processed food pellets.

TRAVELING WITH YOUR DOG Leashed dogs are allowed in Ross Lake and Lake Chelan national recreation areas, along the Pacific Crest Trail, and along roads in the national park. Dogs are not permitted on trails or in cross-country areas within the national park.

Dogs are allowed in the national forest but must be leashed in developed recreation areas such as trailheads, campgrounds, picnic areas, and Heather Meadows. For safety reasons, dogs are not allowed on Table Mountain Trail 681 in the Heather Meadows Area.

NORTH CASCADES BY BICYCLE Many people tour across the North Cascades by bicycle. Ask for the bulletin, "Cycling the North Cascades Highway" at any ranger station. Mountain biking is not permitted on park or forest trails except where developed for that use. Riding is allowed on roads. Visitors should check for use restrictions on the trail system before heading out on a mountain bike trip.

TRAVELING WITH CHILDREN

- Make the most out of your adventure by taking special safety precautions.
- Children should remain with adults.
- Establish rules for keeping together.
- If separated, the child should hug a tree near an open area and stay put.
- Pick trails and adjust goals to children's ages and abilities.
- Bring along the ten essentials.
- Have children help make an emergency kit and make sure they know how to use the items.
- Help children develop responsible outdoor practices.

ACTIVITY IDEAS FOR CHILDREN

Explore with ears and eyes. Play observation games—watch for birds and identify plants, bugs and animal tracks. Listen for sounds of wildlife. Draw a picture or write a poem to remember the trip.

Spend time with a ranger or volunteer naturalist. Ask them for Junior Ranger and fun family activities and programs. Information is available at visitor centers and ranger stations.

Travel Safely, Step Lightly

Many people visit the North Cascades to enjoy its rugged beauty and remote wildness. Recreating in natural areas, however, has inherent dangers and responsibilities. Conditions in mountainous areas can change very rapidly, even during a day trip. These travel tips can help you have a safe and responsible journey so that you, and future travelers, can enjoy the landscape to its fullest.

SAFETY TIPS

Use caution on access roads. Watch for obstructions such as rocks, sharp turns, parked vehicles and pedestrians.

Safeguard your possessions. Lock your vehicle and keep possessions out of sight.

Carry the ten essentials listed on this page.

Stay on trails. Wear adequate footwear and use a topographic map and compass.

After hiking, check yourself for ticks, which can carry Lyme disease.

Horses can startle easily. When stock approach, make your presence known and stand on the lower side of the trail.

Report trail damage to the nearest ranger station.

Do not depend on cell phones as there are many 'dead zones,' even on highways.

Always tell a friend your travel plans, including destination and expected return time.

Leave fireworks at home. Visitors are reminded that due to the potential fire danger, use or possession of fireworks of any kind is illegal on all federal and state-managed public lands in Washington throughout the year.

Hunting on national forest lands, Ross Lake and Lake Chelan national recreation areas, is governed by Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife Game Regulations. Visitors should exercise caution when hiking during hunting season; wear bright clothing and make your presence known. Hunting is not allowed in North Cascades National Park.

Know how to assess avalanche danger. During winter months, the Northwest Weather and Avalanche Center posts current mountain weather and avalanche forecasts, online at www.nwac.us

LEAVE NO TRACE

Plan ahead and Prepare
 Know the regulations, permit requirements and special concerns for the area you are visiting. Prepare for emergencies and hazards.

Dispose of waste properly
 Pack it in, pack it out. Use toilets where available. Below treeline, you may dig a cathole 6 to 8 inches deep away from trails and water.

Leave what you find
 Observe, but do not take. Leave all natural and historical objects as you found them.

Travel and camp on durable surfaces
 Stay on the trail and camp in designated spots. Avoid fragile areas along waterways and in alpine meadows.

Minimize campfire impacts
 Use a stove when possible. If fires are allowed use established fire rings. Keep fires small and extinguish completely.

Respect wildlife
 Observe wildlife from a distance. Store food properly and never feed wildlife.

Be considerate of other visitors
 Be courteous; keep party size small and noise levels low.

WHERE CAN I CAMP? Many public campgrounds in the North Cascades are accessible by car. Most sites are available on a first-come, first-served basis.

Group camps in the national park are located at Goodell and Newhalem Creek campgrounds. National forest group sites are available in the Baker Lake and Mt. Baker Scenic Byway areas.

At select national park and forest campgrounds, advance reservations can be made for group sites (12 months) or family sites (6 months). Visit www.recreation.gov or call (877) 444-6777 to check availability or reserve a site.

For information about camping and other lodging opportunities in Washington State Parks, call (888) 226-7688 or visit www.parks.wa.gov

BAKER LAKE

Nine-mile (14 km) long Baker Lake offers opportunities for camping, boating, fishing, picnicking, hiking and pack & saddle trips. Washington State regulations govern boating and fishing at Baker Lake. Developed campgrounds are located along the western side of the lake. The Baker Lake Trail extends along the eastern shoreline, crossing the Baker River at the north end. For camping information see page 3.

MT. BAKER NATIONAL RECREATION AREA

The Mt. Baker National Recreation Area was established in 1984 outside wilderness legislation to allow for snowmobile use when snow levels are sufficient. During the summer, hiking trails lead from the end of Forest Road 13 across this impressive landscape through the Mt. Baker Wilderness and the Middle Fork Nooksack river drainage.

Hikers can explore the trails after snow melt. Stock parties are welcome July 1 - October 31. Winter recreation includes skiing, snowmobiling and snowshoeing.

To help prevent resource damage and protect sub-alpine vegetation, backcountry campers must stay at designated sites and campfires are not allowed in this area. One-night-only campsites are established for hikers and stock parties at the trailhead at the end of Forest Road 13. Please ask for a detailed handout on campsites and area regulations at a ranger station.

NATIONAL FOREST CAMPING

Forest visitors may camp in dispersed undeveloped forest areas with a maximum stay of 14 days. Developed campgrounds are operated by forest concessionaire, Hoodoo Recreation, www.hoodoo.com, in the Mt. Baker Scenic Byway, Baker Lake and Cascade River corridors. Sites are available on a first-come, first-served basis or by reservation at www.recreation.gov or (877) 444-6777.

North Cascades National Park Service Complex

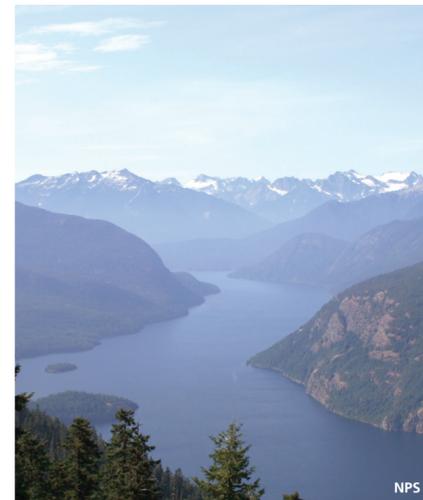

Ross Lake National Recreation Area

The North Cascades Highway, or State Route 20, meanders through the upper Skagit watershed among forests and soaring peaks. A variety of outdoor activities can be accessed from the corridor including challenging hikes and paddling. A number of scenic vistas, picnic areas, campgrounds and short trails are available for those seeking a more relaxing trip.

Below Newhalem, the free-flowing portion of the Skagit River offers excellent wildlife viewing and rafting opportunities. A raft launch is located next to Goodell Creek Campground, but careful planning is required to float the swift Skagit as there can be seasonal hazards and closures.

Diablo Lake offers the only easy access for launching watercraft from State Route 20. The lake, surrounded by glaciated peaks, is a brilliant turquoise blue in summer. This unique color is caused by refracted light on fine rock sediment called glacial flour, carried into the lake by glacier-fed streams. There are three small boat-in campgrounds where a backcountry permit is required.

Ross Lake, the largest of the three reservoirs, winds nearly 25 miles from Ross Dam to Hozomeen on the Canadian border. The only vehicle access is via Hope, British Columbia, but small motor boats and canoes/kayaks (14' and under) can be portaged around Ross Dam from Diablo Lake. Nineteen boat-in campgrounds (backcountry permit required) and Ross Lake Resort are available for those looking to spend multiple days in this remote landscape.

NEWHALEM

The North Cascades were still remote and wild in the 1910s, when the power of the Skagit River was first being harnessed. Newhalem was built as a company town for the men who worked at the dams and their families. Learn about the area's natural and cultural history by exploring interactive exhibits, watching theater presentations or talking with rangers at the North Cascades National Visitor Center. The interpretive staff at the center present a wide variety of programs including evening programs at both Colonial Creek and Newhalem Creek campgrounds.

THE NORTH CASCADES ARE CALLING

"The sublimity of true mountain scenery in the Cascade Mountains . . . must be seen, it cannot be described. Nowhere do the mountain masses and peaks present such a strange, fantastic, dauntless and startling outline as here. Whoever wishes to see nature in all its wildness must go and visit these mountain regions..."

— Henry Custer, United States Northwest Border Commission topographer, 1859

DO YOUR PART! FOR CLIMATE FRIENDLY PARKS

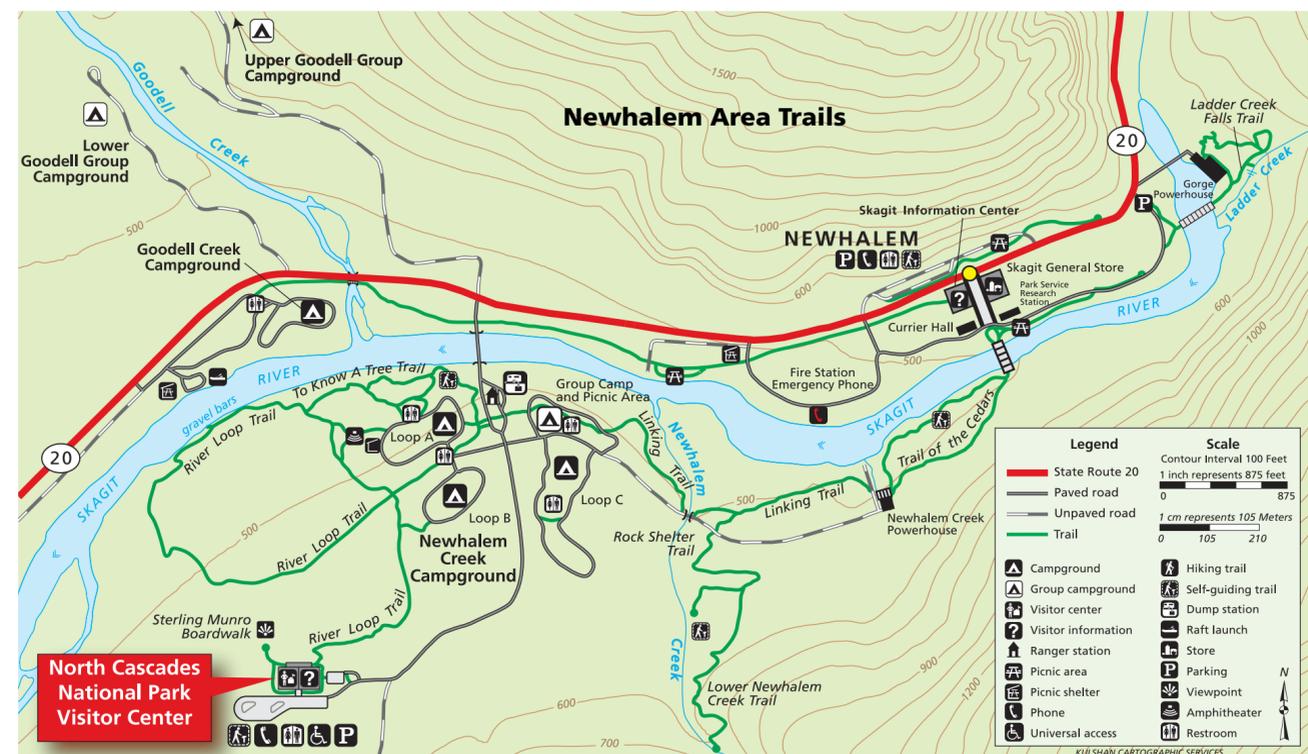

With over 300 glaciers representing one-third of those remaining in the lower 48 states, the ecosystem and landscapes of North Cascades National Park Service Complex will experience unprecedented change in the future. Recognizing the drastic consequences of climate change, park staff is committed to reducing the park's contribution to greenhouse gasses, supporting climate science, research and adaptive management and leading public awareness and education. "Do Your Part! for Climate Friendly Parks" is the first interactive online program in the country that provides national park visitors and supporters with the tools to understand and reduce their carbon footprint and thereby help protect our national parks from climate change.

Get Involved!

Volunteering in the national park and forest is an opportunity to give back to the resources and meet people with similar connections to the North Cascades. Participating in group work projects allows for a deeper understanding of the many issues related to management of public lands. No matter your skill level, a day spent combining friends, fun and stewardship is rewarding for all.

VOLUNTEER WITH NORTH CASCADES NATIONAL PARK

North Cascades National Park has an active volunteer program with as many as 500 volunteers participating in a variety of positions. Most positions are available from May through October. However, some are open year-round. The types of positions vary greatly and may include clerical; skilled and unskilled maintenance; trail trimming; highway clean-up; biology and hydrology data collection; exotic plant removal; visitor contact in campgrounds, on trails or at visitor centers; or backcountry patrols. Campground host positions are very competitive. Long term volunteers are provided with uniforms.

North Cascades National Park Service Complex partners with a variety of groups to organize volunteer work for trails, campgrounds and facilities maintenance. For information contact: jason_bordelon@nps.gov

VOLUNTEER WITH THE U.S. FOREST SERVICE

The Mt. Baker-Snoqualmie National Forest works with several groups to help organize volunteers for trails and other restoration projects. Volunteer hours may help earn a Northwest Forest Pass.

MOUNTAIN STEWARDS

From late July through mid-September, Mountain Stewards assist with educational efforts along popular trails surrounding Mount Baker. These trails are well-traveled by day hikers looking for breathtaking vistas, as well as climbers attempting the summit of Mount Baker.

Mountain Stewards help teach the importance of "Leave No Trace," a program encouraging people to reduce their impact on wildlands and natural areas. The sheer number of feet on these trails leaves them vulnerable to damage and deterioration.

The Mountain Stewards program is an exciting way to become an advocate for the Mount Baker area. Participants need to be skilled in hiking and outdoor recreation, including snow travel, but are not required to travel on technical climbing routes.

Volunteers donate three trail days in addition to two days of training. Trail days take place during daytime hours, Friday through Sunday. If you are interested in becoming a Mountain Steward contact Barb Richey at the Mount Baker Ranger District (360) 854-2615.
