The new year is shaping up to be busy, with new articles and reports nearing publication, new interpretive media making a debut, and new training opportunities being offered.

Like a peach Christmas candle, this newsletter is definitely worth re-gifting!

Looking to Make a Resolution? Resolve to take some training!

The popular Introduction to Climate Change in the National Parks eLearning module provides a self-paced overview of the topic. The on-demand training can be taken at the convenience of learners.

As we know, though, climate change transcends the administrative boundaries of national parks. So, the module was recently made available to all DOI employees through DOI Talent.
