Grand Teton Lodge Company, Concessioner
Grand Teton National Park

The Grand Teton Lodge Company (GTLC), a concessioner operating in Grand Teton National Park, has made great strides in their environmental stewardship program. Some of their noteworthy accomplishments include:

- Developed an environmental policy that has been adopted by employees and communicated to the public and guests.
- Implemented an Environmental Management System (EMS).
- Established an EMS team that required employees to undertake comprehensive environmental training and be assigned specific responsibilities.
- Brought in a third party audit team to ensure compliance with ISO 14001 EMS standards.
- Began a partnership with the Park to greatly expand the use of bio-diesel.
- Continued to offer environmentally friendly ethanol blend fuel.
- Pioneered a recycling program that recycles over 150 tons of paper, plastics, wood and metals from visitor operations each year.
- Sponsored community-wide computer recycling effort.
- Committed to purchasing and using environmentally friendly products.
- Upgraded facilities to include energy efficient windows, lighting systems, appliances, radiant heat systems, and electronic controls, and water efficient fixtures.
- Removed, recycled, and reapplied asphalt in the same location.
- Invested in cleaner and quieter 4-stroke engines in all motor boats.
