12:30 pm - 1:30 pm

Ages 7 and above

Reservations Required

We will explore, through a variety of activities, how America's enslaved people managed to maintain African traditions despite harsh and violent efforts to silence these cultural legacies. We will also look at how African traditions have survived and blended into American culture through an exploration of the resilient cultural practices of the enslaved. We will use storytelling, music, discussion, and hands-on activities to explore these topics. Reservations required.

This program is part of an ongoing series of public programs offered at Oxon Cove Park to promote the history and special places within the National Park System.
