

San Juan Island National Historical Park

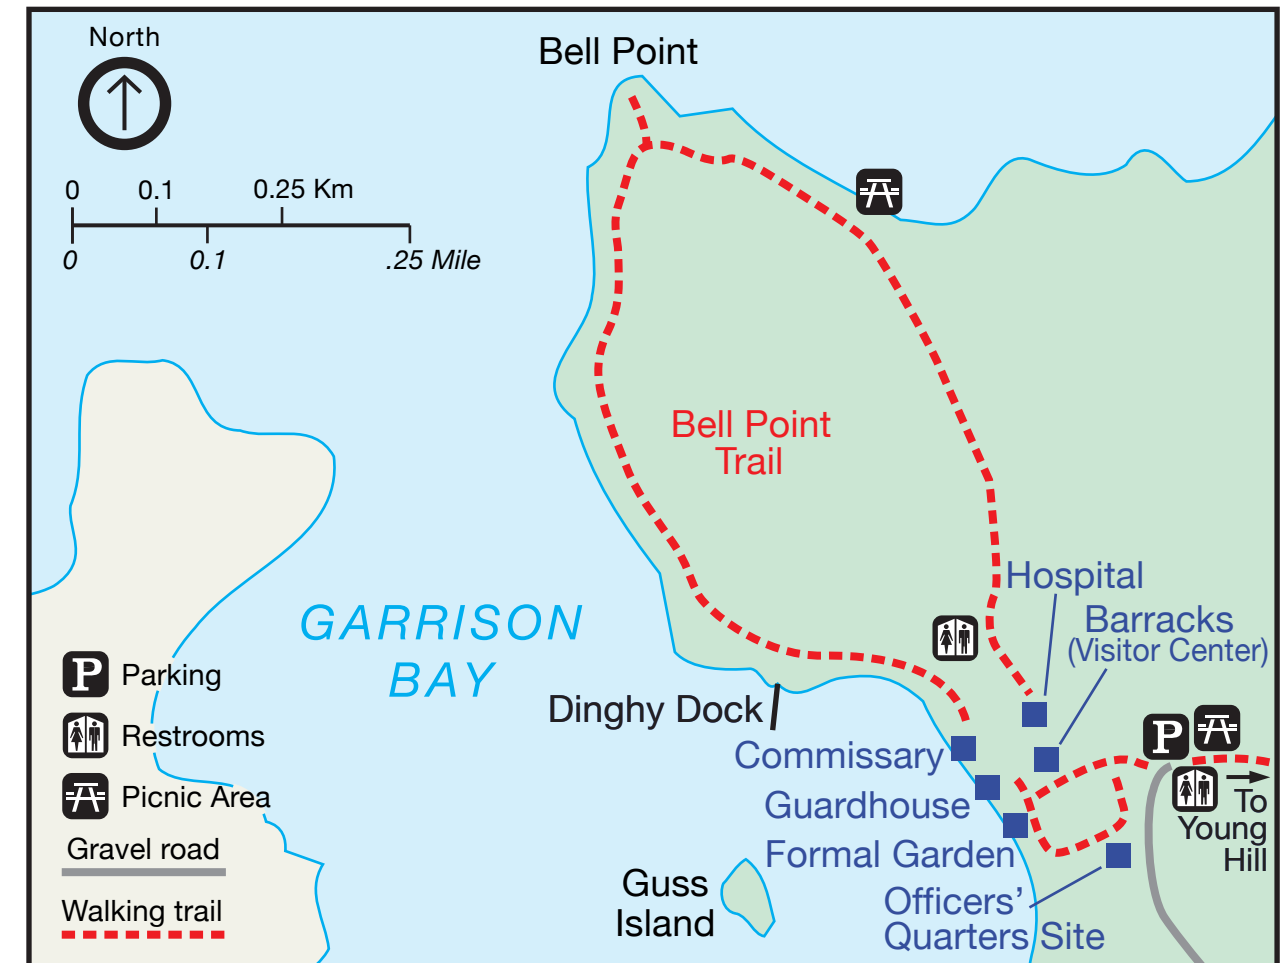

English Camp

Welcome to English Camp, the northern unit of San Juan Island National Historical Park. This site includes nearly 530 acres of saltwater shoreline and forest uplands, plus four historic structures, a small formal garden and a historic cemetery. A visitor center in the Royal Marine barracks is open daily from June to September, and is closed during the winter months. Grounds are open year round from dawn to 11:00 p.m. Pets must be kept on leash within park boundaries. Natural features and ruins must be left undisturbed.

Use common sense and play safely. Look out for insecure footing on primitive trails, steep cliffs, and rock outcrops. Watch for downed limbs and overhanging tree branches. Swimming is not advised due to strong currents and cold water. Wasps can be a summer hazard.

Garrison Bay

Bell Point Trail — Walk the mile-long fairly level trail to Bell Point for a view of Westcott Bay. If you like to harvest shellfish, check with the park ranger at the visitor center for locations, daily limits and red tide warnings. (2 mi. loop)

Self-guided History Walk — Relive the Royal Marine era along the trail that starts at the base of main entrance trail. Pick up guides in the box next to the bulletin board. (0.5 mi.)

English Formal Garden — The garden lies between the officers' quarters site and the parade ground. The camp's second commanding officer had it built for his family to remind them of home.
