

Paramount Ranch

National Park Service
U.S. Department of the Interior

Santa Monica Mountains National Recreation Area

Lights! Camera! Action!

When Paramount Pictures leased the ranch in 1923, they began an era of film production that continues today. You can experience the area where Bob Hope starred in Caught in the Draft (1941) and Sandra Bullock had a leading role in The Lake House (2006). In the 1950s, Western Town was created for television shows, such as The Cisco Kid. More recent television productions at Paramount include The Mentalist, Weeds, and Hulu's Quickdraw.

Paramount Ranch offers several miles of easy to moderate scenic hikes through chaparral, riparian, and valley oak savannah plant communities. Equestrians and mountain bikers may access these multi-use trails. Wildlife sightings might include red-tailed hawks, acorn woodpeckers, coyotes, and deer.

Stroll through Western Town and enjoy a shaded picnic area. This real-life motion picture set is altered slightly with each production, yet retains a Western motif.

Western Town is not the only icon of Paramount Ranch. . . be on the lookout for our two native oak species—coast live oak and valley oak. Experience the rare valley oak savannah, which may be threatened due to the effects of climate change.

Many of the trail names are associated with over 80 years of film and television production at Paramount Ranch.

Medea Creek Trail to Western Town

Overlook ■ 0.5 mile—Enjoy a hike between willows and coast live oaks, then a gentle rise through chaparral to be rewarded by a stunning view of Western Town.

Coyote Canyon Trail to Hacienda Trail Loop

● 1.0 mile—This hike features vistas of blankets of chaparral and the splendor of a riparian coast live oak corridor.

The Hacienda Trail ● 0.25 mile—Named after a film set that featured a hacienda (ranch), this trail meanders along the perimeter of chaparral, and provides a vista of valley oak savannah landscape and surrounding hills.

Bwana Trail ● 0.75 mile—The film Bwana Devil (1952), used this valley oak savannah as a substitute for the landscape of Africa.

The Backdrop Trail ● 0.75 mile—This trail winds through an area often filmed as a backdrop due to the absence of human-made structures.

Valley Oak Savannah Loop ● 2.0 miles—Combine the Hacienda Trail, Medicine Woman Trail (named for the television show Dr. Quinn Medicine Woman), Backdrop Trail, and Bwana Trail for a gentle hike around the oak savannah.

Other landmarks include Marco Polo Hill, named for The Adventures of Marco Polo (1938), and Witches' Wood, where fortune tellers gathered under the oak trees during the Renaissance Pleasure Faire (1970s - 1980s).
