Tourism to Sequoia and Kings Canyon National Parks creates $111.72 million in Economic Benefit

--Report shows visitor spending supports 1,392 jobs in local economy

Sequoia and Kings Canyon National Parks, CA — A new National Park Service (NPS) report shows that 1,476,819 visitors to Sequoia and Kings Canyon National Parks in 2013 spent $111,723,700 in communities near the park. That spending supported 1,392 jobs in the local area.

“Sequoia and Kings Canyon National Parks is proud to welcome visitors from across the country and around the world,” said Superintendent Woody Smeck. “We are delighted to share the story of this place and the experiences it provides and to use the park as a way to introduce our visitors to this part of the country and all that it offers. National park tourism is a significant driver in the national economy—returning $10 for every $1 invested in the National Park Service - and it’s a big factor in our local economy as well. We appreciate the partnership and support of our neighbors and are glad to be able to give back by helping to sustain local communities.”

The peer-reviewed visitor spending analysis was conducted by U.S. Geological Survey economists Catherine Cullinane Thomas and Christopher Huber and Lynne Koontz for the National Park Service. The report shows $14.6 billion of direct spending by 273.6 million park visitors in communities within 60 miles of a national park. This spending supported more than 237,000 jobs nationally, with more than 197,000 jobs found in these gateway communities, and had a cumulative benefit to the U.S. economy of $26.5 billion.
