NHL Significance:

- The ex-USS Clamagore (SS343) was commissioned June 28, 1945, and decommissioned June 12, 1975. Built in 1945, the Balao class submarine USS Clamagore is one of 132 Gato, Balao, and Tench class submarines built during World War II.
- Clamagore was a typical World War II “fleet boat” built as part of a major submarine construction program that followed the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor. The submarine warfare pursued by the United States and supported by this construction program was instrumental in securing an American victory in the Pacific.

- In 1947 the US Navy modified the Clamagore into a Fleet Rehabilitation and Modernization (FRAM) II submarine. In 1962, it was again modified to become a GUPPY III (Greater Underwater Propulsive Project) submarine. Clamagore was one of only nine submarines converted to a GUPPY III and the only surviving GUPPY Type III submarine in the United States.

Integrity:

- The ex-USS Clamagore has ceased to meet the criteria for designation because the qualities which originally led it to be designated have been removed or destroyed [36 CFR 65.9 (b)(1)].
- The ex-USS Clamagore suffered from severe hull wasting which resulted to the scrapping of the vessel. The vessel is no longer extant.

Potential for Positive Public Response or Reflection on NHL Program: By withdrawing NHL designation from a property which no longer meets the criteria for designation, the NPS is demonstrating its commitment to maintaining the standards of the NHL Program, ensuring only those properties with a high degree of integrity bear the distinction of NHL designation.

Potential for Negative Public Response or Reflection on NHL Program: Friends of the Clamagore and the USS Clamagore SS-343 Maintenance and Restoration Association Inc. will be disappointed at the loss of the USS Clamagore. The withdrawal of NHL designation, however, is necessitated by the loss of the vessel.
