

Which one is an Impressionist Painting?

Characteristics of an Impressionist painting:

- Painting of everyday life
- Images are not crystal clear, more like an impression of a scene
- Shadows/shade
- Sunshine
- Visible brush strokes
- Shows movement

Gilbert Stuart, George Washington (Lansdowne Portrait), oil on canvas, 1796, National Portrait Gallery, Smithsonian Institution; acquired as a gift to the nation through the generosity of the Donald W. Reynolds Foundation

Auguste Renoir, A Road in Louveciennes, oil on canvas, ca. 1870, The Metropolitan Museum of Art. The Lesley and Emma Sheaffer Collection, Bequest of Emma A. Sheaffer, 1973

Which one is an Impressionist Painting?

Characteristics of an Impressionist painting:

- Painting of everyday life
- Images are not crystal clear, more like an impression
- Shadows/shade
- Sunshine
- Visible brush strokes
- Shows movement

Gilbert Stuart, George Washington (Lansdowne Portrait), oil on canvas, 1796, National Portrait Gallery, Smithsonian Institution; acquired as a gift to the nation through the generosity of the Donald W. Reynolds Foundation

Auguste Renoir, A Road in Louveciennes, oil on canvas, ca. 1870, The Metropolitan Museum of Art. The Lesley and Emma Sheaffer Collection, Bequest of Emma A. Sheaffer, 1973