This July, meet not one, but seven amazing kids and their fantastic parents as our newest Visitors of the Month! These two families are no strangers to Weir Farm National Historic Site. The children: Maliah, Mason and Luke, as well as James, Amelia, Reed, and little 22 month old Henry have all visited the park on numerous occasions. Both families are from Stratford, Connecticut, and all of these children are students at the Discovery Magnet School in Bridgeport, Connecticut. Both families take pleasure in hiking down to Weir Pond, exploring the historic gardens and drawing or painting in the park's cultural landscape.

Both families are a great addition to the park's elite group of Visitors of the Month and we look forward to sharing more outdoor adventures with all seven of these bright young explorers!

Weir Farm National Historic Site spent four weeks this spring providing after-school programs to students at Discovery Magnet School, as well as a field trip to the park for 1st and 2nd grade students, including Maliah and Amelia. The park provided free transportation and a full day of fun; including watercolor painting, hiking, and playing educational games with National Park Service park rangers. Maliah and Amelia were so inspired during their field trip that they brought their families back to explore their local national park the very next week!
