HISTORY

The Yellowstone National Park Facilities and Maintenance Division keeps the Park's infrastructure in operating condition. The staff oversees the daily operation of campgrounds, buildings, restroom facilities, grounds, roads, trails, transportation systems, and utilities. The Chief of Maintenance is the head of the division and is assisted by two Deputy Chiefs, one of whom oversees the civil engineering shops and trail maintenance operations, and the other who oversees the operations that keep the roads, facilities, and grounds in working order. Although some projects, or portions of projects, are awarded to private contractors the Facilities and Maintenance Division is responsible for the approval of plans, overall supervision, and completion of projects within the Park.

1918 – National Park Service director, Stephen Mather, created the Landscape Engineering Office and the General Engineering Division. The responsibility for the road engineering work in Yellowstone was transferred from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to the General Engineering Division. When the National Park Service took over there were 278.8 miles of primary roads and 24.75 miles of secondary roads in Yellowstone National Park.

1921 – Major construction projects included the widening of roads over Dunraven Pass and at the Grand Canyon of the Yellowstone, construction of stone parapets between the Upper Falls and the Canyon Bridge, a new steel and concrete bridge over the Gibbon River near Norris, the reconstruction of the Lamar River Bridge, and the construction of a new foot bridge over the Firehole near Castle Geysir.

1924 – A bill passed through Congress appropriating funds to the National Park Service for constructing, repairing, and surfacing roads throughout all of the national parks. Roadside cleanup began in Yellowstone National Park after a visit by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., who offered to give suggestions and assist in financing the project. This involved removing dead and fallen trees, stumps, and excessive telephone and power poles as well as moving the permanent poles further from the road so as to preserve the landscape and allow visitors a less obstructed view of the Park. A permanent West Entrance Ranger and Checking Station was built along with a temporary one built at the East Entrance until it could be replaced with a permanent building in 1929.

1926 – The National Park Service and the Bureau of Public Roads signed an agreement relating to the survey, construction, and improvement of roads and trails in the national parks by providing landscape protection with road construction. The National Park Service architect assisted in the redesign of the Old Faithful Lodge.

1927 – Yellowstone National Park Maintenance crews switched from water sprinkling to oiling the roads to keep the dust down as visitors drove through the Park. Road work projects included West Thumb via Lake to Canyon and Canyon Junction to Tower Junction. A barn and corral were built at the Lamar Buffalo Ranch.

1928 – Visitors complained about oil getting on their vehicles so road crews began to put sand and gravel down on top of the freshly oiled surface. Road work projects included Norris Junction to Madison Junction, East Entrance to Sylvan pass, and sections of the West Gallatin Road. The road system in Yellowstone National Park covered 305 miles with Yellowstone road crews also maintaining 32 miles of approach roads through Teton National Forest and 28 miles of approach roads through Shoshone National Forest.

1929 – The Old Faithful Trailside Museum of Thermal Activity, the Madison Trailside Museum, and the Norris Geyser Basin Trailside Museum were built by architect Herbert Maier in the style known as National Park Service Rustic. A bunkhouse was built at the Lamar Buffalo Ranch.

1931 – The Lake Fish Hatchery was built by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the Fishing Bridge Trailside Museum was built by architect Herbert Maier, both in the National Park Service Rustic style. Road crews had to be pulled off projects to assist in fighting forest fires in the Park. Road projects included East Entrance, Canyon to Tower, Obsidian to Firehole, Tower Falls to Blacktail Deer Creek, Mammoth to Obsidian, Fishing Bridge to Lake Junction, and Mt. Washburn loop roads.

1932-1933 – Road projects included Tower Falls Bridge, Seven Mile Bridge, six bridges on the Red Lodge to Cooke City Road, Pilgrim Creek Bridge, and Moran to South Boundary Road. The North Entrance Checking Station was built.

1933 – Local road contractors used funds from the Emergency Conservation Work Program to employ men outside the Park to work on the Tower Falls to Mammoth Hot Springs Road and the Golden Gate to Obsidian Cliff Road. The Civilian Conservation Corps set up four camps in Yellowstone National Park. The CCC projects included telephone line repair, bank erosion control, roadside cleanup, campground cleanup, truck trail construction, fire protection, trail construction, removal of old fences and buildings, building new fences, insect control, and reforestation.

1934 – Public Works Program funds were used to improve the Grand Loop Road and sections of the entrance roads. Two additional CCC camps were set up in the Park. Yellowstone maintenance crews now maintained 328 miles of road inside the Park 54 miles of road outside the Park.

1935 – The Red Lodge to Cooke City Road opened and the Northeast Entrance Checking Station was built.

1937 – The number of CCC camps was reduced to four with most of their road-related projects consisting of road obliteration. Meetings were held to develop policy on the use of signs in the Park. The North Entrance Checking Station at the Roosevelt Arch was destroyed by a fire and a temporary station was built several hundred feet from the burned remains.

1938 – A residence building was moved from Soda Butte to the Lamar Buffalo Ranch.

1939 – The Gardner River Bridge was completed. Congress appropriated money for Yellowstone National Park to keep the Gardiner to Cooke City Road open throughout the winter. The 45 miles-per-hour speed limit was instituted throughout the Park.

1942-1943 – Guardrails along dangerous curves went from being poor quality lodge pole pine to safer metal rails painted brown to appear to be wooden rails. All CCC camps were discontinued in the Park with the Mammoth and Cascade Creek CCC camp buildings being moved to the Heart Mountain Relocation Project near Cody, Wyoming.

1945-1955 – Congress was not appropriating funding for the National Park Service to start any new major construction projects. Yellowstone National Park could only do small emergency projects such as replace badly deteriorated guardrails and patch damaged roads.

1956 – The National Park Service enacted Mission 66, a 10-year plan to upgrade and improve visitor facilities and roads within all of the national parks. The Yellowstone Park Company built Canyon Village as part of the Mission 66 initiative. Other major projects under the Mission 66 initiative included replacing 14 old bridges, widening roads, adding visitor parking, and constructing pull-out areas for visitors to allow them to enjoy the scenery.

1961 – Bridge Bay Marina was built by the National Park Service even though it was originally supposed to be built by the Yellowstone Park Company under the Mission 66 initiative.

1963 – The Chittenden Memorial Bridge replaced the old Chittenden Bridge that spanned the Yellowstone River.

1969 – The Old Faithful Interchange was built as part of the modern “Anywhere USA” construction design philosophy which greatly deviated from the Park Service’s customary philosophy of roads blending with the environment.

1971 - The Old Faithful Trailside Museum of Thermal Activity was demolished to make way for a new Mission 66 inspired visitor center.

1979 – The National Park Service purchased all of the Yellowstone Park Company’s physical assets within the Park. TWA Services was awarded the concessions contract, leasing the facilities from the Park Service and responsible for the upkeep of the buildings. TWA Services began construction of the Grant Village facilities.

1984 – Extensive renovations began on the Lake Hotel.

1988 – The major fires that burned through the Park damaged many buildings in Grant Village. The original buildings were in the Mission 66 modern style but when the buildings were rebuilt they were designed in the more traditional National Park Service Rustic style.

2003 – Construction on the Heritage and Research Center started.

2004 – A complete renovation of the Old Faithful Inn was started.

2006 – The Mission 66 style Old Faithful Visitor Center was demolished and construction began on the new Old Faithful Visitor Education Center. The Canyon Village Visitor Center opened.

2011 – Yellowstone National Park maintenance crews maintained 310 miles of paved roads and 156 miles of unpaved roads, 15 miles of boardwalks, 1,000 miles of backcountry trails, 301 backcountry campsites, 52 picnic areas, 7 campgrounds, 9 visitor centers and museums, 1 marina, 9 hotels and lodges, and over 1,500 buildings throughout the Park used by the National Park Service and the Yellowstone concessioners.

CATALOG NUMBER YELL 182386

VOLUME 111 LF

DESCRIPTION This collection contains material related to the construction and maintenance functions of Yellowstone National Park from 1918 to the present.

Through the years the Park has worked cooperatively with the Bureau of Public Roads, the Civilian Conservation Corps, the Emergency Conservation Work Program, the Public Works Program, private contractors, Park concessioners, and many other state and federal agencies in completing a wide variety of projects within Yellowstone National Park. The material within this collection documents the daily, monthly, and yearly progress made on these projects and shows what portions of the projects were completed by which group. This collection also documents the changes in the style of construction and materials used in construction from the post-Army era, through World War II and the Mission 66 eras, and into the 21st century.

Subjects include the construction and upkeep of the road system throughout the Park, the renovation of the Lake Hotel and Old Faithful Inn, the building of Grant Village, the projects completed by the Civilian Conservation Corps, the installation of the hydro-electric plant in Mammoth Hot Springs, the preservation or demolition of military era buildings, and the Mission 66 construction projects. Other broader topics include modernizing utilities throughout the Park, water and wastewater treatment facilities, six-year plans for future projects, and the collaboration between the National Park Service and the Bureau of Public Roads or various contractors in the completion of projects.

ORGANIZATION Organized into four series: Series I, Master Plans & Reports; Series II, Planning, Design, & Construction Projects; Series III, Contracts; Series IV, Signs, Markers, & Memorials.

Series II, Planning, Design, & Construction Projects is organized into six sub-series: Sub-Series A, Buildings; Sub-Series B, Structures; Sub-Series C, Roads & Trails; Sub-Series D, Grounds & Shorelines; Sub-Series E, Services & Utilities; Sub-Series F, Parkwide.

All series and sub-series are arranged alphabetically and then chronologically based on subject matter, project, location, contractor, or agency.

Some folders include maps, drawings, blue prints, or plans for projects throughout the Park. These oversized materials were not separated either because they are attached to project reports and correspondence or they are duplicates of items in the Maps & Drawings Collection.

SERIES DESCRIPTIONS

I. Master Plans & Reports

This series contains the Yellowstone National Park Master Plans for future construction and improvement projects, along with correspondence and memoranda concerning the projects in the Master Plans. There are also monthly, quarterly, and yearly reports on projects underway or completed within the Park. Also in this series are the monthly narratives of projects completed by the Civilian Conservation Corps.

II. Planning, Design, & Construction Projects: Buildings

In this sub-series are materials documenting the construction, destruction, relocation, or renovation of buildings throughout Yellowstone National Park, ranging from Old Faithful Inn and Lake Hotel to the Mt. Washburn Fire Lookout Tower and comfort stations. There is a complete building inventory file set from the 1950s that document the size and shape of buildings as well as providing a photograph and brief description of materials used in its construction. A few of the project files also contain hazard information such as asbestos, hazardous mold, or other potential health hazard.

III. Planning, Design, & Construction Projects: Structures

This sub-series contains information on the construction, rehabilitation, removal, and maintenance of fences, benches, guardrails, and other structures located throughout Yellowstone National Park.

IV. Planning, Design, & Construction Projects: Roads & Trails

In this sub-series are plans, projects, and construction files on roads and trails throughout Yellowstone National Park and some approach road projects just outside of the Park. Information on roadside cleanup projects might mention the Civilian Conservation Corps since they were heavily involved in that work. Projects included road oiling to prevent dust, bituminous paving of roads, chip sealing, bridge construction and maintenance, and snow removal.

V. Planning, Design, & Construction Projects: Grounds & Shorelines

Within this sub-series are materials on the construction, rehabilitation, and maintenance of campgrounds, picnic areas, and lakeside beaches as well as watershed and erosion control through Yellowstone National Park.

VI. Planning, Design, & Construction Projects: Services & Utilities

This sub-series documents the construction, rehabilitation, modernization, and maintenance of domestic water systems, water and wastewater treatment facilities, telephone lines, heating and cooling systems, hydro-electric facilities, and electrical power usage throughout Yellowstone National Park. Sanitation and garbage disposal methods are also documented.

VII. Planning, Design, & Construction Projects: Parkwide

This sub-series contains materials documenting projects that occurred throughout Yellowstone National Park and would sometimes involve both road crews and utility crews or building crews and utility crews on a single project. Reports on Civilian Conservation Corps projects can be found in this sub-series as they often worked on variety of assignments through the Park.

VIII. Contracts

This series contains the project contracts bid on by outside private contractors and the correspondence, estimates, and project updates sent by the contractors to the National Park Service while they worked on the project. Once the project was completed they might send a project completion report with final costs listed and sometimes photographs documenting the work completed.

IX. Signs, Markers, & Memorials

This series contains correspondence and photographs of signs, roadside markers, and memorials throughout Yellowstone National Park. Some wayside exhibit signs are mentioned along with various caution, warning, and directional signs.
