Please don't make this a plastic renovation to gain bookings. Please treat it like the historic preservation it deserves to be. Many wonderful old hotels have lost their charm due to air conditioning, removal of transoms for the sake of sound abatement, and inclusion of "guest conveniences." It's nice to plug one's hair dryer into a bathroom outlet. However, if the original rooms didn't have saunas and spa tubs, don't install them now. The resort aspect is the the Park, the wilderness, the wildlife, the air. And the atmosphere and food at the Ahwahnee were great when I was there. All of the above critical aspects should remain unchanged.
