

Chris Dolanc – A Brief Biography

Chris Dolanc is a plant ecologist and post-doctoral researcher at the University of California, Davis, where he finished his PhD in December 2011. He is interested in patterns of plant distribution, in particular how climate affects tree distributions in montane environments.